WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has ended its controversial Pacific series of nuclear tests and called for an effective treaty to free the world from all nuclear testing.

President Kennedy announced that the low-yield shot fired over Johnston Island Sunday would mark the end of the series that began six months ago.

Kennedy said, however, that the U.S. would continue to conduct underground tests in Nevada. He said these would remain free from fallout.

UN Approves Compromise On A-Test Ban

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The political committee of the UN General Assembly today approved a Canadian-proposed compromise formula for halting all nuclear bomb tests by Jan. 1 even if a comprehensive treaty is not reached by that date.

BULGARIAN PM OUSTED BY PARTY

SOFIA (Reuters)—Bulgarian Prime Minister Anton Yugov has been expelled from the Communist party's central committee. It was announced here today.

Todor Zhivkov, first secretary of the Communist party, announced the central committee decided to expel him for "grave breaches of socialist legality and for his anti-party activities," the official news agency BTA said.

In a complicated series of votes, the committee:

1. Passed without a dissenting vote a resolution sponsored by 37 non-nuclear powers urging a complete halt on tests by Jan. 1. The tally was 81 to 0 with 25 abstentions.

2. Passed by a vote of 50 to 12 with 42 abstentions an Anglo-American resolution urging a comprehensive treaty banning tests in the atmosphere, outer space, the oceans and underground under effective international controls.

The vote on the 37-power resolution as a whole was held after the committee approved on separate ballots revised Canadian amendments which had become the centre of debate since they were first submitted last Wednesday.

GO TO ASSEMBLY

The measures now go before the General Assembly where the same 110 delegations sit and a two-thirds majority is needed for approval.

The key Canadian amendment recommends that if "against all hope" the U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union do not reach agreement on the cessation of all tests by Jan. 1 they enter into an immediate agreement prohibiting nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space, accompanied by an interim arrangement limited in time suspending all underground tests.

For this they would take as a basis a memorandum submitted by the U.S. and the U.K. Continued on Page 2

Liberal Austerity Motion Crucial Test for Tories

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Liberal group in the House today was to move a want of confidence amendment to the supply motion that will call for a halt to the surcharges and tight money regulations so that the "economy can get moving again."

This attack on the Conservative government's austerity program will put the Social Credit group in the Commons squarely on the spot. The Social Crediters have said they were opposed to the austerity measures, especially tight money, and would vote against it.

Consequently the Liberal non-confidence motion will put the Tories in the embarrassing position of having to vote for the austerity program against the Liberal amendment or against the tight money provisions of the program and with the Liberals.

If they vote with the Liberals, and the New Democratic Party group also votes with the Liberals, it could mean the defeat of the Diefenbaker government.

The supply motion was to be introduced shortly after the House opened. The vote on the non-confidence Liberal amendment will come Tuesday night. It will be a crucial vote.

There could be also a non-confidence amendment from the Social Crediters or the New Democrats, but not from both groups. If the Social Crediters move a non-confidence amendment then the New Democrats will be out of luck.

While her husband went into seclusion to prepare for a final television appearance tonight, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon took his place on a tour of campaign headquarters in Los Angeles county today. Nixon is running for governor in tight California race. An estimated 50,000,000 Americans are expected to cast their ballots across the country in the mid-term election Tuesday. See story Page 7. (AP Wirephoto).

Major Indian Outpost Falls

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Indian government announced today the loss of one of its most important military positions on the battlelines with the Chinese Communists.

Their position at Daulat Beg Oldi, at the northern end of the line in Ladakh, was evacuated a few days ago as a defence ministry spokesman said. Ladakh is at the western end of the Himalayan border.

The outpost at Daulat Beg Oldi was the centre of a series of smaller posts, all of which fell earlier.

The Chinese have now crossed what they claim to be their border with India at one or two places and have driven beyond the disputed territory.

New Delhi officials think there are no chances now of a negotiated peace with the Chinese.

Prime Minister Nehru has demanded the Chinese withdraw to positions before their incursions into Northeast India began on Sept. 8 and has rejected proposals of a cease-fire and peace talks until they do.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai says his country will not retreat.

Reuters news agency said Indian press reports from Indian headquarters for the Northeast Frontier stated Indian forces had recaptured three villages from Chinese troops near Tawang. The reports quoted "unofficial but reliable information," the news agency said.

The reports said the Chinese had "committed many atrocities and caused untold miseries to the local population."

PEACE PRIZE LEFT ON SHELF

OSLO (AP)—The Nobel committee of the Norwegian Storting (parliament) today announced it had decided not to award the Nobel Peace Prize for 1962.

The prize money has been reserved for next year, the brief announcement said. No reason was given for the committee's decision, but in the past the prize has not been awarded in times of great crisis.

Informed sources said the committee regarded the world situation as "too labile"—that is too unstable—to make any award this year.

Cuba Agrees To Proposal

GENEVA (Reuters)—The international committee of the Red Cross today announced that the Cuban government has agreed to the committee inspecting ships bound for Cuba.

The committee's announcement said inspections would be carried out for one month by inspectors appointed by the Red Cross.

It said the committee learned of Cuba's agreement through the United Nations.

President Kennedy said last week that the Soviet proposal to use the Red Cross as a means of ending the blockade was acceptable to the U.S.

The Red Cross announcement said the Red Cross could not accept direct responsibility for the operation, which would remain the responsibility of the United Nations and the countries concerned.

Its contribution would consist principally in the recruitment of personnel to inspect ships on the high seas.

It said 30 inspectors would be involved in the task.

The committee said it had asked former President Paul Ruegger to go to New York for talks with the UN Acting Secretary-General U Thant and representatives of the countries concerned.

The announcement said the final decision of the committee would depend on the result of Ruegger's mission.

It would be the first "political" mission the committee has ever undertaken.

Traditionally, the committee is careful to preserve its neutrality and independence, insisting that it can be responsible to no other body.

CHOOSE SWISS

A committee spokesman said before the announcement that it is the committee agreed to undertake the inspection, it probably would recruit officers from the Swiss army to act as inspectors.

The committee's normal duties involve purely humanitarian missions such as the care of prisoners of war and prisoner exchanges.

Ruegger, 65, a noted jurist and former Swiss diplomat, was president of the 20-man international committee from 1948 to 1955. After this term as president he directed the committee's activities in prisoner-of-war work.

In 1948 he personally supervised Red Cross activities during the war in Palestine.

RCAF Flies Six Dakotas To India

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF will fly six Dakota aircraft to India as part of the Canadian government's military assistance in India's border war with Communist China, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

The planes will start leaving from Trenton, Ont., at noon Tuesday, he said.

The prime minister's announcement in the Commons, supported by Liberal Leader Pearson, brought the suggestion from Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson that Canada re-examine its "moral position" in supplying military aid to India and wheat to Communist China.

Canada, he said, is placing herself "in the peculiar position of assisting in destroying our debtors."

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas, also expressing support for the government's decision, took issue with Mr. Thompson, stating that any economic embargo on Communist China should not be taken by Canada alone but be referred to the United Nations.

Mid-East War Feared In Crisis Over Yemen

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—A deepening crisis over Yemen threatened today to touch off a Middle East conflict pitting conservative monarchies against President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

On one side are the royal strongholds of Saudi Arabia and Jordan and on the other the Yemeni revolutionary regime backed by the U.A.R.

The crisis touched off by the overthrow of Yemen's ancient throne in September reached a new high Sunday with threats by the rebel regime to invade Saudi Arabia's main southern port of Qizan and the interior city of Najran.

Saudi Arabia and Jordan, both monarchies, are supporting attempts by the deposed Yemeni king, Imam Mohammad Al-Badr, to regain his throne.

The revolutionary regime is backed by the United Arab Republic, which has sent planes and tanks and perhaps 1,000 soldiers into the tiny Red Sea country.

Yemeni revolutionary President Abdullah Salal voiced the invasion threat against Saudi Arabia as that country's radio claimed, royalist warriors now control Yemen's entire north-west.

Communiques purporting to come from Al-Badr's headquarters claimed hundreds of troops, including many U.A.R. troops, had been killed in the fighting.

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

NOVEMBER 5

The front walls of the brick building being erected on Store Street fell down this morning, slightly injuring a bricklayer. Cause is believed to be the use of bad materials by Mr. Everett, the contractor.

Victoria's booming hotel business received another competitor today as the London Hotel, located at the corner of Broad and Johnson, was opened.

Mr. Wood, the comedian, will appear for the first time in many weeks at the theatre tonight.

Messrs. Hartley and Barnett has established a tannery on Rock Bay, believed to be the first of its kind in either of the colonies.

Owing to a lack of efficiency in the San Francisco post office today as the steamer Pacific brought no mail when she arrived today. Mails arrive in San Francisco daily by the overland route.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Handy man with a shovel, believe it or not, is Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes.

While gardeners were busy removing some trees from the grounds at Government House last week, Mr. Pearkes appeared on the scene with a large scoop-shaped shovel and proceeded to help them fill in the holes.

"His Honor is very fond of gardening," said one of the staff.

Very uncommercial . . . The return of Duke Ellington to the Memorial Arena tonight reminds me of an earlier performance he gave at the old Beacon Theatre in Vancouver.

The Beacon kindly asked me to do an impromptu radio interview with the Duke. It was great fun, but alas the interview got so cluttered up with music, I clean forgot to mention the theatre until near the end of the broadcast when I happened to catch sight of the Beacon's Irish publicity manager through the studio window.

He looked like an enraged orang-outang and seemed to be tearing great lumps out of his hair. While the big eyes blazed into mine, the lips writhed into the silent words: "MEN-TION THE BEACON—BLAST YOU!"

Last Saturday we asked for the address of Alfred Tennyson Forbes (not Ford), the barefoot juggler who used to perform outside the Medical Arts Building on Pandora.

Latest advice is that Alfred and his family have left Victoria and are now on board a ship bound for New Zealand.

Many children have a hidden medical problem—an allergy or malady which will not inconvenience them much if precautions are taken.

Canadian Media-Alert Foundation, a non-profit organization, urges every parent who has a child with such a problem to contact the foundation at 176 St. George Street, Toronto, and obtain an identification bracelet or tag which clearly states the allergy, condition or specific health problem.

Some 85,000 men, women and children wear the Media-Alert tag in Canada and the United States and the foundation suggests Victorians avail themselves of this protection and security.

Victoria's restaurants are generally clean and immaculate "both front and back," says Ernest Martin, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, visiting here over the weekend.

"My wife and I ate in a number of restaurants and were equally impressed by the courteous and efficient service."

There was a slightly flustered telephone operator at the Empress Hotel the other day when violin-piano duo Thomas Rolston and Isobel Moore were staying at the hotel.

A caller, when told that no one named Isobel Moore was staying at the hotel, said, "Oh, try for Mrs. Rolston. She is probably registered under that name."

There was an awkward pause at both ends of the line over the implications of what had been said. But it was soon settled.

Victoria lawyer Hugh Larratt Henderson was recently honored by the Trinity College School Association of Port Hope, Ont.

He was elected to represent the association on the governing body of the school. The association has more than 4,500 members and branches in 14 major cities of Canada, including Victoria and Vancouver.

Mr. Henderson has been president of the Victoria branch for a number of years.

More than 30,000 people have visited 65-year-old Fort Rodd Hill since it became an historic national park last June 9.

"Visitors from the United States seem particularly interested in the history of the fort," says William Walker, 923 Esquimalt Road, who is senior guard of the property.

The 44-acre site is being developed by the historic sites division of the federal department of northern affairs. It has underground passages similar to 19th century forts in India and Africa.

Band Sergeant E. A. Stannard, an instructor at Royal Canadian Naval School of Music, Esquimalt, learned recently that his son, Band Staff Sergeant Derek Stannard, has won high honors overseas.

He has been nominated the best all-round student of the 1962 class in the student bandmasters' course at the Royal Military School of Music, Kneller Hall, England.

PEARSON CHARGE

'Canada Irritates Friends'

HALIFAX (CP) — Liberal

Leader Lester Pearson says the Diefenbaker administration has "a positive genius for irritating our two greatest friends — the United States and Britain."

"They seem to get along all right, though, with Cuba and Communist China," Canada was even selling wheat to the Chinese Communists who were attacking India, a Commonwealth country.

Mr. Pearson made his comments Saturday in a keynote speech at a Nova Scotia Liberal convention here.

He said the U.S. and Britain take 80 per cent of Canada's exports. Yet the Progressive Conservative government at Ottawa had greeted Britain's proposed entry in the European Common Market with "whining and obstruction." It had adopted until recently a similar attitude toward President Kennedy's freer trade policies.

Canada, he said, has had a weak government for the last five years, a government now hanging onto office with votes of a "Social Credit" party that had condemned its policies before the June 18 election.

A Liberal government would have accepted the changing world trade situation at the outset and moved to take advantage of it. "Protecting our interests does not require a diplomacy that irritates our best friends."

Mr. Pearson endorsed United States blockade action in the Cuban crisis. "I think it was the right course to take. I wish it could have been taken some other way but I think we have a duty to support the United States in this course."

nese will try to continue to advance instead of retreating. Since the Communist offensive began 16 days ago the Chinese have driven forward at 13 points in the disputed border areas.

Persons travelling on roads northwest of New Delhi reported Indian troops leaving that area, which faces West Pakistan. The troops were heading for Assam state, in north-west India.

U.S. weapons were being rushed toward Assam. U.S. Air Force planes were arriving in Calcutta at the rate of one every three hours to deliver 100 tons of infantry arms and mortars daily. British weapons also are being sent to India and Canadian arms have been promised. The terms on which the three countries responded to India's urgent requests remain to be settled.

China's aid to India does not like Western help to India. "It is regrettable that India is buying great quantities of weapons from the United States, Britain and Western countries," he said in Peking.

Young Tory Raps Green Over Cuba

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Toronto Young Progressive Conservative conference Saturday rejected a demand for the resignation of External Affairs Minister Green.

Gordon Ross, a member of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative executive, said he thought Mr. Green's resignation was "absolutely essential for the survival of the Conservative party—at least in Ontario."

Mr. Ross said he based his demand on the government's "disgusting lack of policy" on the Cuban crisis.

Four Survive Total Wreck

A Sidney man and his three passengers escaped with minor cuts and bruises when a car went off the Central Saanich Road, hitting a power pole and a tree, at midnight Saturday.

The vehicle was a total loss. Ronald Shillito, 16181 Third Street, Sidney, was driving the 1953 model sedan. The road is straight at this point, police said.

He and his passengers were taken to Rest Haven Hospital for minor treatment and released.

Jews Burned at Stake By Nazi S. S. Killers

COBLENZ (Reuters) — A West German accused with 13 other former Nazi S.S. men of 30,356 wartime murders told a court here today Jewish partisans in Russia were burned alive after they threw a bomb at an S.S. headquarters.

Georg Heuser, 49-year-old former head of the Rhineland-Palatinate criminal investigation department, said his S.S. chief at Minsk ordered the burning and told all his staff to attend.

Heuser arrived when the fire had died to glowing embers, but the men—there were three or four, he said—were still dying.

BODIES OF 3 CHILDREN FOUND IN BURNED TREE

STURGIS, Sask. (CP) — Three children were burned to death Saturday when fire broke out in a tree house where they were playing near their farm home. Their father frantically chopped down the tree when he was unable to reach the trapped children, but they were dead when the tree fell.

The three youngsters, children of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Carlson, were burned to death while playing in the tree with a lantern on the family farm near this eastern Saskatchewan community Saturday.

The father was attempting to rescue the children after seven-year-old Wade Carlson, apparently blown out of the tree house by an explosion crawled 200 yards to the farmhouse to summon his father.

Danny Carlson, 11, Patricia Carlson, 9, and Jackie, 8, died in the blaze.

Wade suffered severe burns to his head and hands and his condition is critical. Wade, in hospital at Preeceville, Sask., had begun to come out of a coma.

The Carlson farm is three miles south of Sturgis, 140 miles northeast of Regina.

Adenauer Loses Two Top Officials

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer's coalition government today survived the crisis of Der Spiegel affair, but at the cost of two of its top officials.

A government announcement said the coalition of Adenauer's Christian Democrats and their minority partners, the Free Democrats, will continue, but two officials will be dropped—one from the justice and one from the defence ministry. Meanwhile, a federal court ruled that Rudolf Augstein, publisher of the weekly magazine Der Spiegel (The Mirror) which is charged with disclosing defence secrets, will remain under arrest because there is danger he might try to conceal evidence.

The government announced that Justice Minister Wolfgang Stammberger, who had offered his resignation over the affair, now will stay in office.

But it said there also was agreement that State Secretary (Walter) Strauss shall be relieved of his duties as secretary of state at the federal justice ministry.

It added State Secretary Volkmar Hopf of the defence ministry has applied for "leave until further notice."

Balance of Power Key Factor

Howard Whitman, noted writer on human affairs, in this series, points ways to make your marriage more vibrant, more exciting — more like you always dreamed it would be.

By HOWARD WHITMAN

Napoleon Bonaparte, in his heyday, was sufficiently the master of all he surveyed to satiate the ego of any man. And yet, speaking of his relationship with his wife, Josephine, Napoleon said, "I generally had to give in."

Bossing an empire — and bossing a woman were two very different cups of tea.

The marital woods are full of would-be Napoleons and frustrating Josephines vying to see who bosses whom in that little principality of love known as wedlock.

There was no such problem in the classical culture of Japan. There, hidebound tradition made it clear to every woman just where she stood: In youth she was to obey her father, in adulthood she was to obey her husband, in old age she was to obey her son. It was as simple as that. And it bound a woman's hands just as effectively as the thongs of ancient custom bound her feet.

Today, praise God, we see women as people — neither chattels, nor servants, nor vassals, but co-equal partners. So a new formula must be evolved for the balance of power between man and wife.

This is not easy.

Bit Distrustful

Each of us lives as a free and sovereign state until we make the alliance known as marriage. If we think the United Nations has a hard time of it, this is simply a microcosm of the situation found in any marriage. Two people want to get along, they pledge to get along, and now they are faced with the actual job of getting along. Neither really wants to sacrifice sovereignty to the other and each is a bit distrustful of allocating sovereignty to an entirely new entity which they do quite know or trust as yet the "one flesh" of their married selves.

The first major adjustment in marriage has been called "sparring for position." Who's going to be boss? Who will make the decisions, or what share will each have in them? Is this marriage going to be a dictatorship, a leadership, or a partnership?

No one has supplied a better answer than the late Rabbi Barnett R. Briskner of Cleveland. He told newly married couples: "The husband is the head of the family, but the wife is the neck. Can the head turn if the neck says no?"

The poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow put it this way:

"As unto the bow the cord is,
So unto the man is woman;
Though she bends him,
She obeys him,
Though she draws him,
Yet she follows;
Useless each without the other."

Such concepts as the rabbi's "head and neck" or the poet's "bow and cord" are more easily preached than practised. Most couples sweat out a good deal of rivalry before, if ever, they achieve this harmony of power.

Common Problem

At the Social Service of Saint-Jean-de-Quebec, staff worker Francoise Benoit reported that "boss problems" are among the most frequent sources of wedded friction during the first two years.

This doesn't mean that after two years the problems are solved satisfactorily. It may mean that the wife simply gives up and succumbs to a dictatorial husband, or the husband resigns himself to being hen-pecked all his days.

Or, worst of all, all negotiation ends in futility and the man and wife proceed to ignore one another, embarking on one of those frigid-zone marriages in which indifference fills the vacuum left by loss of love.

Court records are replete with balance-of-power problems and their consequences. A Los Angeles court was told of a marital battle royal which began over a spot on the wall — as follows:

"My husband repeatedly told me I was a poor housekeeper for not removing the spot," the wife testified.

"Then one day he decided to get some soap and water and remove it himself. He rubbed at the spot but instead of disappearing it became larger."

"So he got more soap and rubbed some more, but the spot just grew and grew and he got madder and madder. I just stood watching and that seemed to irritate him more. So finally he turned on me and slapped my face."

In an Ithaca, Michigan, court, a wife testified that her husband attempted to assert his authority over her by dumping anti-freeze in her bath water.

Spoiled the TV

In Woonsocket, Rhode Island, a husband charged with beating his wife gave this explanation: The one way he could be sure his wife would do the housework was to remove a tube from the television set before he went off in the morning. One day he forgot to remove the tube. When he returned at evening, the dishes were still in the sink, the beds were unmade, the house uncleaned, and dinner not ready. So he resorted to strong-arm. The judge gave him one year's probation during which he was to work out a marital balance-of-power not based on removing a TV tube.

In Chicago a young wife told the judge that her husband had refused to turn over to her a book partly filled with trading stamps he had received in buying gasoline.

"I told him to get out, but he left the stamps," the wife testified. To her consternation the husband got out but took the stamps with him.

The court arranged a property settlement, by which the wife lost her husband and got the trading stamps.

One approach to the balance-of-power problem in marriage is the "big-and-little rule." The husband simply makes all the decisions in big matters while the wife has the power of decision over little matters. It doesn't work. Soon George and Mary are arguing over what's big and what's little.

Not Statistics

Another obvious approach is the "50-50 rule." Everything is to be 50-50 in the balance-of-power, a co-equal division, a partnership. But that doesn't work either. People aren't statistics and marriage just doesn't work on percentage. As W. Clark Ellzey, professor of education for marriage at Stephens College, Missouri, points out:

"The old idea that marriage is a '50-50' proposition is misleading. In most marriages somebody has to make it 60-40 now and then or 90-10. The people who are constantly watching to see whether the one is delivering his full 50 per cent, and being very careful to supply his own but no more, are likely to miss the real wonder of romance. You find most romance in marriages where people are trying to see who can give the most."

Here we come to the essence of harmonious wedlock. It is not the husband who bosses or the wife who hen-pecks who gets the most out of marriage; it is the spouse who succeeds in giving the most to the other.

Learned to Yield

Let's accept the proposition that the man is the head of the house. Suppose the wife acknowledges that leadership, extends to the husband the power of decision, and graciously allows him, as is said, to rule the roost. His male-ego alive, what will he do but use that power to bring pleasure to the woman he loves? Here is the power behind the throne. It may be the husband who sits on high with the sceptre of command. But it is his queen who reigns.

A wife in her 30s, recently said to me, "For the first 10 years of our marriage I felt I was in a state of war with my husband. Each of us seemed to be out to subdue the other. It was pretty miserable. But as I passed 30 I seemed suddenly to grow wise. I somehow recognized love as a surrender of the self and not the conquest of another. I began to yield instead of oppose. Only since then do I know what happy marriage is. Now that I no longer thwart my husband he seems to dedicate his life to pleasing me."

Next: "I Want a Divorce."

PECULIAR TALK

Here's What Parents Really Mean

LONDON (AP) — Britain's National Marriage Guidance Council today opened a campaign to help teen-agers understand their aged parents.

In a youth guidance pamphlet called "Sixteen For All Young Adults," the council said:

"Parents talk a peculiar language of their own. They say one thing and mean another. Often they are difficult to understand."

The pamphlet explained that a parent will often say "of course it's none of my business if you choose to go out looking like that."

It said the parent really means:

"I'm trying hard not to interfere. I know you've got to live your own life now and make your own mistakes. But I've organized things for you for so long it's difficult to get out of the habit."

The pamphlet cited this parental expression: "This is a fine time of night to get home."

What they mean is: "I've been very worried about you. Why can't you warn me if you're going to be late? Then I don't have to imagine all sorts of awful things happening to you."

'Firefly' Satellite Lights Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anna, the newly launched "firefly" geodetic satellite, winked its lights on schedule early Sunday, the defence department announced.

Two of Anna's four flashing lights were commanded to make a series of quick winks over the Atlantic off the eastern coast of the United States.

The command signal was given automatically from equipment built into the satellite.

No attempt was made to photograph or observe the lights because it was daylight.

The satellite's success in turning on its xenon gas flashlights meant that the navy will go ahead with scheduled recording of Anna's optical system during hours of darkness this week.

U.S. Diplomat Accused as Spy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Sunday charged United States diplomat Richard Carl Jacob with spying and ordered him out of the country.

In Washington, the state department said the charges are "a complete fabrication."

The secretary-archivist was the third U.S. embassy staff member expelled of spy charges in less than a month.

The Soviet news agency Tass accused Jacob of "maintaining secret liaison with a spy on the territory of the Soviet union."

An embassy spokesman said

Friends of the Parks

THE ARGUMENTS OF TIMBER and plywood interests seeking to invade Strathcona Park for commercial logging have served one valuable purpose.

They have caused the focus to be rung. People who believe wilderness parks should be preserved as wilderness parks and not destroyed by logging have been alerted to a pressing danger.

Certainly the warning should spur concerted action to keep the Strathcona area as it is—action as strong and effective as that taken by conservationists a few years ago to minimize damage to Butte Lake when the B.C. Hydro moved in.

But the clear and present danger to Strathcona should not mean limited action to protect that park alone. The public, which owns the parks, should take a harder look at all its wilderness recreation areas to determine how they can be preserved against encroachment, now in progress quietly, or looming in the future.

Strathcona is not the only wilderness park containing valuable timber on which commercial interests fix hungry eyes. And the loggers are not the only prospective invaders.

Let the public also turn its mind to what can happen if mineral claims are developed haphazardly in the parks, if fine streams and waterfalls are pre-empted for hydro purposes at the expense of scenery and of attractive valleys, if the present system of special parks-use permits is expanded, or even maintained.

Governments at all levels, municipal, provincial and federal, are under constant pressure to yield certain park areas for commercial development. The lobby against the federal official who opposed such exploitation of Banff and Jasper indicates the problem on the national scale. The recent conflict over use of part of Thetis property for power transmission brings the issue to the civil level. And the constant attempts by special groups to acquire particular rights in British Columbia parks reflects the same struggle in the provincial realm.

No government sets out deliberately to destroy wilderness parks by removing scenery in them or despoiling natural grandeur. But while parks and their contents continue to represent rich prizes for those people who want to exploit different resources they must invariably be the source of conflicting interests.

Almost every one of these special interests can present an argument. The timbermen can point to trees which they claim are going to waste because they are not harvested. Miners can ask what good minerals untouched in the ground can do for a country. Hydro people have a similar case against water which falls down precipices and fails to produce electricity.

These are arguments which governments do not — and probably should not — ignore. Against them, at all times, must be set the principal purpose of the parks — the preservation of natural amenities which would be lost if intensive commercial development is permitted.

Not only for today's enjoyment of the wilderness should these parks be given adequate protection. They should be preserved for future generations so that the grandchildren of our grandchildren can benefit from the virgin beauty of the country we know today.

How is this protection to be afforded?

Laws have been passed to provide it, but those laws can be varied by Parliament or local legislatures — often more easily by order-in-council or municipal bylaw.

They won't be changed to the detriment of the parks if a sufficiently strong, adequately organized group of citizens insists that they shall not be changed. The partial success of the Butte Lake campaign shows what can be done.

To accomplish such results, or improve on them, calls for a major public effort headed by men of stature. Individual citizens acting alone can scarcely square off against wealthy and powerful lobbies. Politicians will be swayed by the greatest pressure brought to bear on them.

If that pressure is to come from those determined to preserve their parks, a strong, well-informed, continually active army of friends of the parks must be mobilized. Without it, the commercial campaigns must prevail and sporadic successes by local groups concerned with particular park sections will not be adequate. All our parks are involved and will be grievously injured unless the forces of conservation are strong enough to withstand the attacks.

A Sensible View

IN REJECTING A MOTION urging censorship of imported books the B.C. Federation of Labor convention showed a full understanding of the issues involved and the dangers inherent in any such restriction.

As one spokesman put it: "I don't favor obscene literature, but I'm against censorship." And another wisely observed: "Censorship of one kind often leads to censorship of another."

Censorship of obscene literature is a cause which frequently starts a stampede to prohibit, ban, curtail, control. Many a person who hears such advice with mixed feelings hesitates to raise a voice of protest. "What! Support obscenity?" "Do you want your children subjected to filth?"

Swing to Liberalism

SUBMERGED BY OVERPOWERING international events, a grass-roots political swing is apparently under way throughout Canada.

Quietly the people of this country have been sizing up their own business, deciding what they need to regain economic and political health and showing a revulsion against the frauds perpetrated upon them during the Conservative election campaign leading up to last June 18.

This is the trend that becomes evident if a recent Gallup poll is accepted—and the poll has been astonishingly accurate in its assessment of public reactions.

Earlier this month, the Gallup pollsters asked Canadians: "If a

It takes a deeper insight to perceive the fallacy of some of this talk and to recognize the dangers to more basic freedoms which may be involved. Too many folk are ready to condemn and prohibit, lured by the mistaken idea that a healthy outlook and a mature taste in literature can be achieved through legislation.

The Federation of Labor has shown that it is not taken in by such superficial thinking, and that it appreciates that the dangers of too enthusiastic a censorship campaign outweigh its benefits. Rejection of obscenity must be taught in the home; even with all reasonable safeguards it cannot be adequately taught on the news stand. Labor has pointed the way.

federal election were held today, which party's candidates do you think you would favor?" Of those asked, 47 per cent said Liberals, 33 per cent Conservatives, 11 per cent Social Credit and 9 per cent New Democrats.

This is heartening news for the Liberals, who received 37 per cent of the popular vote last June 18, the same fraction as did the Conservatives, while Social Credit polled 12 per cent and the New Democrats 14.

On the basis of the recent sampling, the Liberals have made substantial gains, the Tories suffered substantial losses, the Social Credit backing has receded and the New Democrats have lost even more than the Conservatives.

Speeding the News

IN THIS DAY OF ALMOST INSTANT communication via Telstar it is gratifying to note certain ceremonies performed in Aachen, Germany.

There, important newspaper personalities and other dignitaries have been honoring the memory of Paul Julius Reuter's first pigeon-post news agency.

The young Reuter, with his friend, Heinrich Geller, brewer, baker and racing pigeon breeder, used the birds to speed news from one point of Europe to another over 100 years ago.

The service in this form was short-lived, like the pony express, and for the same reason. Faster means of communication, Mr. Reuter's invention among them, displaced it. But they did not displace Reuter or his determination to move the news quickly. He used what came along as fast as new techniques were developed.

The tributes paid at Aachen express appreciation for the zeal with which Reuter expanded his concept and by perseverance made it a great practical success. The formal ceremonies were held in Aachen. Yet wherever in this world today men and women seize eagerly on the news as soon as it breaks, they honor the man who dedicated his life to the speediest possible transmission of accurate information. We are all in Mr. Reuter's debt.

Getting Diplomacy Into the Proper Hands

By B. A. TOBIN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union were reported near agreement on a plan to permit the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound Soviet ships.

Ahoy! Heave to, we wish to come aboard.

Who are you? We're the Red Cross, Captain. We've come to inspect your ship for missiles and other arms. Sent by the United Nations, you know.

So? Please make yourself at home. Thank you. We also have coffee from our mobile canteen if any of your crew would like some. And while we're waiting for the inspectors to complete their job, we'd be glad if any of the crew would like to donate blood to our clinic. We have all the facilities right here.

I'll ask them. Thank you! Oh yes, and we're collecting for the hurricane victims along the Florida coast, if any of you would like to contribute. Please put your money in these cans. And just one other thing. We have a complete home-maker service for anyone aboard who would like to help in maintaining his cabin—no heavy scrubbing, of course, but our workers will assist with the meals and care for children if any.

Well, I think perhaps we have all that in hand, thank you. I see the officers have finished their inspection, so I would be glad if we could proceed to our destination.

Fine, fine. We'll leave now. But you might just let us bandage that cut on your hand, Captain. Can't be too careful with infection, you know. Thanks for your donations, and here are your tags to wear. Do tell the cook to be careful about flies and proper refrigeration—don't want any epidemics aboard, do we? Goodbye. And be careful of the water in Havana. All right men, cast off.

Ah, General Gloom Bye Now, I presume? Yes? May I introduce myself. I am Major Joseph Doakes of the Salvation Army. I and my party have been sent up here into the Himalayas to negotiate with you about this invasion of India—er, that is, this dispute about the border. Why us? Well, it has become the fashion now to choose peaceful organizations to perform these international missions. Started with the Red Cross in Cuba, you may remember. When international diplomacy broke down and the United Nations wasn't allowed to carry out these duties, the diplomats turned to us mutually acceptable groups. Now, sir, may I ask you to state exactly what your demands are in this area so that I may report back to Salvation Army headquarters with recommendations for a means of ceasing hostilities. By the way, if you happen to have any alcoholics in your ranks we'd be glad to have a quiet word with them. And some of your camp-followers look as though they could do with some advice from our counsellor. However, I urge on you the benefits to be gained from peaceful settlement of your dispute and...

Mr. Khrushchev? Oh, so pleased to meet you. Mr. Khrushchev, we are a committee from the senior girls class of the Okefenokee Sunday School and Bible Study Circle and we have been sent over here to...

Vignette of the U.S. Election Campaign

By ALISTAIR COOKE, from Bridgeport, Conn.

THIS is an old and dingy Yankee manufacturing town, which made the first sewing machine and the first gramophone. Today its factories also grind out machine tools and glitter with nose cones and missile parts, but in the brilliant stillness of the fall sun it is as bright and somnolent as a fishing village.

Three hours before the President of the United States flew in today there wasn't an election poster in sight or a sound-truck in earshot. A big colored woman lumbering into the supermarket and trailed by five children had "too many other things on mah mind" to bother about the prospects of Abe Ribicoff, the biggest vote-getter in the State's history, the first big-time booster of Kennedy, the Governor who quit in mid-term, became the first Kennedy Cabinet officer, who then repented and came back for forgiveness and a run for the Senate.

"Maybe Abe'll make it," said a sleepy cab-driver, "but he hadn't ought to have run away that way." An insurance salesman said: "Know something? You're the first person who asked me whether Abe would be re-elected. The first person today? 'First person anytime,' he said, 'I never saw a quieter election.'"

Waiting

At the airport the first police cars were dozing in formation. A secret service man was talking to a State trooper, who in Connecticut looks like a Canadian Mountie. A mechanic, flown in overnight to service the President's plane, was studying a glass-framed prototype of a 1932 super-charged, air-cooled aircraft engine, the first no doubt, "I got one like that in my lawn mower," he chuckled.

An hour went by and the place began to fuss a little, with politicians arriving in cars the size of houses. Telegraph agents set up three machines. Up in the control tower the head man, a little brown-eyed Italian who had been talking about the local production of "The Mikado" he is producing, looked at his watch and picked up binoculars and glared out over the woodlands and the maples flaming down by the water.

A DC-6 was wheeling in over the Sound. It was the press plane. Once it was berthed, he looked at his watch: 3:29. "Close the airport!" he said. A Coastguard search-plane came in with a muffled protest. "The order's been out since 7:30 this morning," snapped Mr. Campagna. "You know the rule, one hour before he lands till he's gone again. The secret service'll be all over us. Freeze it on Runway 2."

Down on the field there were squads of cops, and hundreds of piping children, and a band with drum-majorettes in green skirts and salmon-pink thighs, and beside the landing-ramp they had wheeled in a stand festooned with red, white, and blue bunting. At the base of it was a very handsome man with the smoothest blue suit and dapperst shirt cuffs and suavest snap-brim hat, clearly the head of the studio come to greet Sophia Loren. "Abe!" I said, "you are the slickest-looking candidate in the United States."

"Don't say that," he began to howl and diminished down to a mutter. "My opponent keeps using that word." Anyway, how did it look? "It looks just fine." But he couldn't hide the fear that John Dempsey, a small town Mayor hand-picked to replace him as Governor, might get a bigger majority. It would look like a Kennedy defeat from Maine to California.

On Time

There was another drone in the blue bowl of the sky and the squeals went up and within minutes the big grey and red plane, with "United States of America" lettered on its gleaming belly taxied in and stopped, and the ramp slid in and there he was, chubbier than ever, with his shining teeth and a traveller's tan (this is the seventeenth State he has sandwiched in between the desk-work and meetings with Ben Bella and Rusk and Stevenson and the German Foreign Minister and Gromyko).

He rapped out his thanks to Abe and the State for being "the first to support my candidacy for the Presidency." Then he lifted his right forearm and began to chop out the statistics with the rhythm of a cash register.

Guantanamo

By MAX FREEDMAN,
from Washington

A CURIOUS difference has emerged in the assessment of Secretary General Thant's mission to Cuba by officials of the United Nations and officials of the Kennedy administration. Here in Washington, Acting on the wishes of Mr. Thant himself, American officials have denied that the negotiations with Mr. Castro in Havana were rough and uncomfortable. At the United Nations the charge is openly being made that Castro was insulting in his behavior to the United Nations delegation.

The truth seems to be that the discussions in Havana, at the start, were a disgrace to diplomacy and a reflection of Castro's strange belief that he could retrieve his prestige by a brazen display of personal arrogance. Having engaged himself in this spurious performance, Castro became quieter and more reasonable in the later stages.

It is a tribute to Mr. Thant that he should be ready to ignore his personal humiliation and should choose instead to concentrate on the essential issues that must be resolved before the Cuban crisis can be ended. He is a big man.

Some officials at the United Nations circulated a report that the United States would be willing to end its hostility to the Castro regime if Castro followed the example of Tito and broke openly with Moscow. It is easy to understand why this report should appear plausible to these officials who are unfamiliar with the views that although Castro is angry with Mr. Khrushchev this anger is not yet at the point where he will risk an open breach with Moscow—or will refuse a closer entanglement with Peking.

The Kennedy administration cannot enter into any political negotiations with the Cuban regime while Castro's actions are bringing alarm and dismay to many countries in Latin America.

Senator Smathers of Florida, one of the official leaders of the Democratic party in the Senate, announced that the United States had "broken the code" of the Cuban government and had discovered that Castro was planning a widespread campaign of subversion and sabotage in other countries. Quite plainly the Kennedy administration cannot consider this an appropriate time to deal with Castro as if he were to be the Tito of Latin America.

Preliminary Change

It will be necessary for Castro to change his ways and abandon many of his ambitions before such an accommodation becomes possible.

Late Thursday afternoon the defence department announced that it will never be satisfied with a "mere symbolic inspection" of the Cuban missile bases by the United Nations. It remains the fixed purpose of the United States that on-site inspection must take place.

The air reconnaissance has been resumed by the United States, and will continue, as a warning to the Cuban government that it cannot obtain easier terms for itself by creating difficulties in the negotiations with the United Nations.

Meanwhile the United States is bracing itself for a rough diplomatic exchange with Cuba over American rights in Guantanamo naval base.

This base was originally ceded to the United States to protect the Cuban people in their newly won independence after the Spanish war. President Theodore Roosevelt who negotiated the agreement defended it against American critics who wanted the United States instead, to annex Cuba or to treat it as a principality.

In 1934 Cuba signed a treaty with the United States confirming American rights and stating that these rights could be ended only with the consent of both governments. In return the United States abandoned the Platt Amendment which served as authority to justify United States intervention at will in Cuba's internal affairs.

Under the 1934 treaty the United States is required to pay only $2,000 a year in gold for the use of Guantanamo Bay as a naval station. This nominal sum was deliberately chosen to emphasize that Cuba sought to make no profit from the arrangement and entered freely into it.

The defence department insists that the United States Navy still needs the base because Guantanamo is "the crossroads of the Caribbean."

The Cuban government is unimpressed by these arguments. Castro insists that he cannot be shackled by the 1934 treaty. His maximum demand is for American withdrawal from Guantanamo; his minimum demand is for a re-negotiation with him of the treaty.

Whatever the outcome, the future of Guantanamo Bay has become an important element in relations between Cuba and the United States.

As Our Readers See It

Manufacture Own Miseries

It is a tragedy that the people of the earth learn so slowly from their mistakes of the past. Forty-seven million died or were injured in the massive destruction of World War II that cured the planetary depression of the '30s and started the factory wheels of international capitalism turning full tilt again.

Now they are almost as eager to listen to the propaganda of their respective capitalist rulers as ever they were, and willing to lay down their lives for such non-existent entities as "freedom," "democracy" and "communism."

The prize in this latest Cuban episode is the rich raw material supplies of South America, its markets and trade, that the Russian and American bosses both want.

There will be no intentional nuclear war, the capitalists of the world have no desire to commit suicide. The two sides are trying to bluff and threaten each other into further concessions.

But there could be a conventional war in which more wage-workers would die to preserve their employers' profits. The useful section of society could institute Socialism, production for use, and get rid of all this nonsense. As it is we manufacture our own miseries.

What is a Carrier?

A woman writes that she has a skin disease—which is embarrassing enough—but now relatives and friends are accusing her of being a "carrier," which they have assumed means someone who should be shunned as likely to give them or their children the disease.

Actually, the woman has a chronic hereditary disease, which is not at all catching; hence she is perfectly harmless and need not be feared or shunned by friends or neighbors.

When I spoke of a carrier, I spoke of a person who inherits a hereditary disease like diabetes, but never shows it, or perhaps has a mild form of it after he is 55. He is a carrier of the genes (hereditary units) in each cell of his body which may someday cause one of his children or grandchildren to have diabetes.

I see many people with a hereditary disease who immediately say, "But it can't be hereditary in my case because neither one of my parents has it." Yes, they may be free of the disease but perhaps two of the patient's uncles or cousins have it, or they have some disease that is an "equivalent" of it.

I have a large book (Practical Leads to Puzzling Diagnoses, Lippincott) filled with case histories of the equivalents or probable equivalents which showed up in the members of 673 unfortunate families I once studied.

Another word that everyone with a tendency to get a familial disease must now become acquainted with is "penetrance." Let us say that I was born with a split lip, and a great uncle of mine had it. Will my children get it? Probably not, because the penetrance of this tendency is low; in other words, although a child of mine may inherit the tendency, which he can pass on to his grandchildren, he and his brothers, and sisters will not have it.

Many people who have much insanity in their family get very angry when they hear me speak of the inheritance of the disease.

They say, "You mean I have to get it?" And I say, "No, no; you don't have to get it, or you may get it in some form that only your husband (or wife) will know you have it."

Alvarez

A woman may show her tendency to a depression only on the three days before her period, or she may have only an occasional day when she feels blue and alone and unloved.

But there is a word of hope: I know many people who, inherited a definite tendency to a mental breakdown, but because they always lived sensibly, and because they always "clung to their sanity," they have lived a long and good and useful life.

Quite a few people write asking what is scleroderma; what causes it and what can be done for it? Scleroderma means a hardening of the skin.

Actually, in some cases of the disease the skin is not involved, and the trouble attacks a number of the internal organs. Sometimes there is stiffness of the joints, suggesting rheumatoid arthritis, and some persons have punched out ulceration on the skin of the fingertips and knuckles.

According to Dr. Theodore B. Bayles who reported an extensive study of the disease made at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, 90 per cent of the patients complain of stiffness, pain and swelling of the joints at some stage of the illness. Many complain also of symptoms that are due to disease in the heart or lungs.

Often there is disease in the gut, with perhaps difficulty in swallowing, and regurgitation of food. Constipation may be severe. The kidneys are likely to be involved. The voluntary muscles in various parts of the body may be affected. During the active phases of the disease, anemia is common. Also there may be signs of damage to the liver.

Unfortunately, there is no specific treatment for the disease. Psychotherapy, such as massage and treatment with heat and cold, may be needed. The patients do better in a warm environment.

If, in the winter, they go into a cold climate, they should wear heavy fur or wool-lined mittens and overshoes. Salicylates can be used. The corticosteroids seldom seem to be helpful, and cutting the sympathetic nerves usually does not help. If I had scleroderma, or any rare infirmity, I would want to go to a great medical centre where some of the specialists would know the disease well, from much personal experience with it.

HOME GARDEN

A Couple of Winter Charmers

Bulbs which flower in November outdoors are not too numerous, but apart from the true fall crocuses (which are not really bulbs, but corms) there are two which will add the final touch of charm to almost any garden.

The first of these to come into flower is Nerine Bowdeni which is far more of a charmer than any of the amaryllis to which it is closely related.

A strong 16 to 18-inch stem carries a head of rich pink blooms each with narrow petals lined with a slightly darker shade. Each head may bear up to 12 flowers so that the effect is long lasting. No leaves appear at this time with this particular nerine, but a companion plant can be used which enjoys the same general conditions. This can well be the lovely and seldom seen stembergia lutea, whose clear yellow, crocus-shaped blossoms and narrow, dark green leaves fill in beautifully at the feet of the taller nerines.

Until seen together, the combination is hard to realize, and for November—well, where but in Victoria and vicinity could it be done? It would be interesting and enlightening to know if these two bulbs do in fact bloom at the same time outdoors anywhere else in Canada than here on the coast.

The secret, if there seems to be any, of success with Nerine Bowdeni and the stembergia is that, both like a rich, humusy, well-drained soil which can be quite dry all summer.

The leaves of nerine begin to show early in the new year, if the weather is mild, and die down about June. The stembergia leaves come with or just before the flowers in November, remain over winter and die down in spring.

All summer these bulbs should lie in the sunbaked bed of good soil, and receive no artificial watering until the buds of nerine begin to push through during October.

A few bulbs of each with plenty of space between can be left for years without lifting. They will increase by offsets quite readily and form a lovely colony if given a dressing of bonemeal and sifted compost each early spring or late fall.

CANADIAN Ambassador to France, Pierre Dupuy, attended a service at Vimy, Sunday, in memory of 60,000 Canadians killed during the First World War. Ceremony was also attended by representatives of French veterans' associations.

'Monstrous' Charges

MOSCOW (AP)—An authoritative Soviet magazine denounces as "queer and monstrous" charges by Albania and Communist China that the Russians have "raised the banner of modern revisionism."

The article in the theoretical journal, Problems of Peace and Socialism, is one of the strongest Soviet assaults on the Chinese and Albanian ideological opposition in the last year. It names Premier Enver Hoxha of Albania but mentions no Chinese names.

The bitterness is demonstrated by the comparison of Chinese and Albanian "dogmatism" to Leon Trotsky's leftist deviation.

Trotsky rarely is referred to publicly. The comparison of dogmatism to the Trotskyite heresies is one of the strongest possible forms of denunciation among Communists.

The harsh statement assails Chinese and Albanian refusal to follow Soviet economic models and to co-operate with other Communist countries in the "international division of labor."

China Raps K Over Cuba

PEKING (Reuters)—The People's Daily rejects any "appeasement policy" toward the United States in the Cuban crisis as a massive pro-Cuban demonstration continued for the third day running in the Communist Chinese capital.

In an editorial the Communist party newspaper pledges "full support" for Cuba's rejection of United Nations supervision over withdrawal of Soviet missile bases from Cuba and for other demands made by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in his television speech last Thursday.

The editorial, continuing a series on Cuba since Soviet Premier Khrushchev agreed to remove the bases eight days ago, says "to compromise with or meet the Kennedy government's truculent demands can only encourage the aggressor and will in no way ensure world peace."

The Cuban crisis was a "crisis carrying out an appeasement policy toward United States aggression and a crisis encouraging U.S. imperialism to pursue even more insatiably its policies of aggression and war," the People's Daily says.

It "is the sacred task of all socialist countries to stand firmly on the side of the Cuban people and give full support to the Cuban government's just demands," the editorial continues.

It did not openly criticize the Soviet decision to withdraw bases from Cuba, but competent observers here said its terms made Chinese disapproval of Khrushchev's decision clearer than ever.

Two similar editorials were carried in all other national newspapers.

Meanwhile, the demonstrations, which started Saturday night in response to Castro's television speech and carried on throughout Sunday, were on much the same lines today—anything, even more massive.

From early morning unbroken columns of slogan-chanting, banner-carrying marchers—including rifle-carrying militiamen, office and factory workers, peasants, housewives, children and old people—paraded past the Cuban Embassy outside the city's eastern wall. Buses and trucks were bringing people into the city from outlying districts. Side streets were crowded as marchers were assembled and given banners.

An official figure for Sunday's demonstration put the total marchers at more than 320,000. Newspapers today devoted whole pages to descriptions of the parade and demonstrations in other major Chinese cities.

Electricians Take Dispute to Ottawa

Victoria local of the electricians' union have taken their HMC Dockyard dispute directly to Ottawa in an effort to solve a longstanding difference that caused two work stoppages at an outside shipyard in September.

Jack Driscoll, business agent for Local 230 of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said a protest over use of non-union electricians on a government contract has gone to the director of civilian personnel at naval headquarters.

Mr. Driscoll said it is not the first time such a protest has been sent, but never before had the dispute resulted in work stoppages.

'BRUSHED OFF'
Other protests have always been "brushed off," he said.

However this time the union has shown a willingness to compromise its argument that there should be full union recognition within the Dockyard, since prevailing rate employees in the naval shipyard are paid going union rates in private industry.

The union would be willing to consider application of the Rand formula, with regard to these non-union employees, which is a form of recognition in that the workers would be required to pay union dues for the benefits they receive at union expense.

Mr. Driscoll said there is no acknowledgement of the protest from Ottawa yet.

WIDE SUPPORT
All other shipyard trades and Victoria Labor Council support the electricians since the problem is not confined to one trade.

The trouble in September arose at Yarrows Ltd., where electricians from a non-union shop in the Dockyard were ordered to carry out some specialized work on the destroyer escort Saskatchewan.

Car Overturned In Collision Complete Wreck

A small European sedan was overturned when in collision with another small car at the corner of Foul Bay and Newton about 1:30 Friday afternoon.

The occupant of the overturned car, Mrs. Audrey Emery, 1840 Peshurst, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for a check-up after complaining of a neck injury.

The car she was driving south on Foul Bay was struck on the left rear fender by a car entering from Newton. Her car was described by police as a "complete loss."

Driver of the other vehicle was William G. Leddy, 1954 Allenby.

Damage to his car was estimated at about $100.

GOP Expected to Gain As U.S. Votes Tuesday

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Obscured by the Cuban crisis, the big 1964 U.S. election campaign finally rolls to the finish line today amid a crossfire of fraud and corruption charges swirling particularly around Richard M. Nixon's California battle.

With President Kennedy's personal prestige but not his office at stake, an estimated 50,000,000 Americans vote Tuesday on the makeup of the next Congress and control over 35 of the 50 states. Crystal-gazers can see few changes in Congress but predict hefty gains for Republicans in key states.

Still the big puzzle is how voters may react to the polls to Kennedy's handling of the Cuban missile issue. Some pollsters suggest it may halt the traditional off-year erosion of the controlling party's congressional strength.

They suggest it may also reduce some of the previously detected voter apathy as Americans vote for an entire 435-seat House of Representatives; 39 of the 100 Senate seats and 35 state governors and other state officers.

Though the Democrats held the last House of Representatives 261 to 174 with two vacancies and the last Senate 64 to 36, Kennedy had trouble with a coalition of southern Democrats and right-wing Republicans who crushed many of his legislative proposals.

The president therefore is looking for some new faces, but the prospects are when the election is over, he'll still have a rather hazy Congress which won't make his life too happy as he goes through the last two years of his term and prepares a battle for a second term in 1964.

Out of the Tuesday vote may also come his 1964 opponent. Out in California, Republican Nixon who lost the presidency to Kennedy by a hair's breadth in 1960 is waging a knock-down, drag-out fight for the governorship against the present occupant, Democrat Edmund G. Brown. If Nixon wins, he may get another crack at the presidency, although he has denied any intention of running in 1964.

Democrats have accused the Republicans of smearing Brown with campaign pictures and literature. They have gone into court and got three injunctions in the last week against some of the anti-Brown material.

Republicans, countering with their own smear charges filed a $2,000,000 damage suit against the Democrats Friday and got a court order against use of two anti-Nixon leaflets. The controversy surrounding a $200,000 loan to Nixon's brother Donald by the Hughes Tool Co., which broke into the open in the last presidential election, has also been revived by the Democrats.

In contrast to the California toss-up, New York's Republican Governor Nelson Rockefeller is considered a sure winner against Democrat challenger Robert Morgenthau. The smiling, jet-jawed Republican may chalk up such a big vote margin that federal leaders may find it hard to ignore his pleas for a crack against Kennedy for the White House.

Pollsters say they won't be surprised if Republicans also take Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania — all big states with tremendous political power, that could make things tough for the Democrats in 1964. In Michigan, Democratic Governor John Swainson, a native of Windsor, Ont., is being harried by former auto-maker George Romney, 1964 making his first appearance in major politics. Romney is hoping to take the governorship for the Republicans and perhaps use it as a platform for a leap to the White House — although he, too, has said he won't run in 1964.

THOSE WOMEN DRIVERS!

Proving something about women drivers are Ewy Rosquist (left) and Ursula Wirth, who jax Sunday after wrecking myth of male superiority with record-wrecking victory in Argentine Grand Prix for standard cars. They arrived unheralded and proceeded to beat every male driver in sight in gruelling race. (AP Wire-photo).

SWEDISH BLONDES ... WIN 11-DAY RACE

Male Egos Crushed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A pair of pretty Swedish blondes, Ewy Rosquist and Ursula Wirth, have left a trail of broken records and crushed male egos in Argentina with a stunning victory in the 11-day, 2,762-mile Argentine Grand Prix for standard cars.

"We did it for the women of Argentina," Mrs. Rosquist beamed at a celebration Sunday night after she and her co-driver finished pushing their big Mercedes Benz 220SE at an average of nearly 79 miles an hour in the six-day race over rutted, unpaved roads.

And about the men?

"They were extraordinarily nice," said the 33-year-old Ewy, choosing to ignore one incident where she was nearly pinched and responded by smacking her roadside admirer across the chops with a key chain.

"Actually the drivers with us (some 150 male competitors who chased them full-throttle from town to town all 11 days) have been very nice. They were quite protective," said Mrs. Rosquist, and Miss Wirth nodded her agreement.

"They have been most helpful," she said, choosing to disregard a report reaching her homeland in Sweden the other day that she had christened a somewhat indiscreet mechanic by clipping him with a wrench.

BEG Swimming Team Takes Break Seriously

VANCOUVER (CP) — Their coach called it a "break from training," but members of Canada's British Empire Games swim team took the competition seriously enough to break 11 Canadian records at a week-end meet here.

Only divers Tom Dinsley and Ernie Meissner were missing as the team joined about 400 youngsters from British Columbia and Washington state for the Canadian Dolphin Club meet.

Another 22 Canadian records were broken in junior age-group events.

The team's eight swimmers have been training at Victoria's Crystal Garden and will leave in the full strength of 10 Thursday for the games later this month at Perth, Australia.

Coach Ed Healy said he was pleased with the new times established. He declined to specify what hopes he has for the games, despite records established Sunday by Vancouver butterfly artists Mary Stewart and Allyn Meinhart.

BREAKS OWN RECORD
The 16-year-old Miss Stewart broke her own Canadian 100-metre butterfly mark by half a second with a time of 1:07.5. She holds the world record of 1:07.3, but a world record can only be established in a 50-yard pool and she was swimming Sunday in a pool half that length.

Meinhart, 18, became the first person ever to break one minute in the 100-metre butterfly in Canada, swimming the distance in 59.7. It was 18 seconds faster than the existing mark.

Miss Stewart also clipped 6-10ths of a second off her 100-metre freestyle record with a time of 1:01.8. Meinhart and teammate Richard Pound of Montreal produced identical times of 36.3 seconds in the same distance for men, 4-10ths of a second better than Meinhart's mark set earlier this year.

TIGERS TRIUMPH
NISHINOMIYA, Japan (AP) — Al Kaline and Larry Osborne each hit solo home runs as the touring Detroit Tigers defeated the Japanese All-Stars 7-3 in the 19th inning Saturday.

FLEMING-HOMER HOT
Two Kapp passes went to halfback Willie Fleming for touchdowns and two more went to halfback Sonny Homer for touchdowns. Quarterback Mel Melin, who played all of the second quarter, picked up four points on a convert and a field goal.

Riders got their lone touchdown in the opening quarter on a 44-yard pass from quarterback Bob Placek to end halfback Walt Minco, a late arrival from Arizona State. Reg Whitehouse converted and got a single on a 30-yard field goal attempt.

The game, scheduled for Saturday night, was the first in Canadian Football League history to be postponed because of weather conditions.

A threat of fog here caused the postponement, which in the end proved an error from the weather viewpoint. The field was dry and there was no fog Saturday night.

Two other Lions came into Sunday's statistical picture. Fullback Nub Beamle picked up 48 yards to send his season's rushing total to 1,161—best in the conference—and Fleming's two touchdowns gave him 14 for the season, equal to Saskatchewan's Ray Purdin as leading touchdown scorer.

Kapp went into the game needing 275 yards to crack Tripucka's record. He got 134 in the first quarter, among them a 13-yard touchdown throw to Fleming and a 33-yard scoring toss to Homer.

JUST MADE IT
He rode the bench in the second, then had difficulty in the mud in the third until he connected on a short one to Homer, who ran it down the sidelines for an 85-yard touchdown play. He hit Fleming from the 13 in the fourth and then, with 23 yards to go for the record, rode the bench again. He came back with two minutes left and completed three for the record.

United Pounds Pils in Weary Soccer Display

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Like modern art, Victoria United is hard to figure. United's is a winning record—four victories and a tie in six Pacific Coast League starts.

But do you knock a winner because you don't like the way he holds his brush?

That's the dilemma that shrouds Victoria's soccer fans today. United, then, might consider it a favor if Saturday's 3-1 victory over Pilseners were not reported.

That would be cheating.

Nonetheless, that's precisely what United and the sad sack Pils did before 570 witnesses at Royal Athletic Park. Good money was accepted and the payment was a substandard brand of soccer.

ALIBIS APLENTY

If good soccer was at a premium, alibis weren't.

Pilseners' management sadly pointed out that they found it extremely difficult to field a full team. A youngster was recruited from juvenile ranks and Bill Mitchell, an all-star centre half in the Mainland League last season, played goal despite a leg injury that left him as agile as a flat-footed duck.

All alibis politely considered, it was still quite obvious that Pilseners would have made more friends if they had remained in the Mainland League.

WALLY HAS PROBLEMS.

United chose to drop to Pils' level Saturday. That's getting to be a habit with the Victoria team and soccer fans—experts all—are anxious to know when United will start forcing these inferior sides to "come up" to United's level.

United manager Wally Milligan admittedly has problems with his forward line. It has been lacking in punch and cohesion. It has been Milligan's continued experimentation.

No one faults Milligan for experimenting. That has to be. What seems to annoy most of the fans, however, is the fact that Milligan has ignored experimenting with what seems to be the obvious.

The picture is turning out fine, but the fans apparently don't like the way the paint is being applied.

CORNER KICKS: Scotsman Bill Hamilton is due to dress next weekend against Columbus.

Centre half Geoff Hill may be lost to the team for three weeks. He's due to make a business trip to Montreal.

George Paul scored two goals for United Saturday and became the team's second-highest scorer, along with Chummy Crabbe. Dave Stothard, tried briefly at centre forward, scored United's first goal. Malcolm McManus earned credit for Pils' goal when Harold Holroyd steered it into the net while trying to clear. All the scoring came in the first 30 minutes.

Canadians Stick To Unbeaten Path

Royal City and the unbeaten Vancouver Canadians marked up the big gains in the Pacific Coast Soccer League at the weekend.

Canadians, adapting better to muddy conditions, won "the big one" by edging Firefighters, the defending champions, 3-2, on Neil McEachnie's penalty kick with two minutes left in Sunday's game at Callister Park.

Royal City made it a "double" this weekend by blanking Seattle Hungarians 3-0 after edging North Shore 3-2 on Saturday.

McEachnie's winning shot was allowed after Firemen's

Gary Stevens had brought down winger Ken Ferris in the penalty area. McEachnie scored off an indirect kick earlier in the game and Bill Nicol counted Canadians' first goal.

At Seattle, the Royals also had to prove their worth as "mudders". Ron Paton, Jackie James and Tommy Millar scored Westminster's goals.

Saturday, the Royals won on goals by Don Wilson (two) and Millar. Metro Gera and Dick Crompton scored for North Shore.

Royals Show Class, Clip Cats, Nanaimo

Opening introductions are a thing of the past, and Pacific Coast Junior "A" Hockey League followers agree that New Westminster Royals stand in a class by themselves at the moment.

Royals marked up their second and third victories of the infant season at the weekend, stopping Nanaimo 4-2 Saturday and then returning to home ice to rout Victoria Cougars 12-4.

Action continues Tuesday with Nanaimo playing the Bruins at Esquimalt.

Steady pressure from the opening whistle made it look easy for Royals, who led 5-1 after the first period and stretched it to 8-2 by the end of the second.

Ivan Susheski scored three goals Sunday and two Saturday to spark Royals' double win. Bill Bowles and Martin Schaefer each added two Sunday, and singles came off the sticks of Ray Collingwood, Leroy Mowrey, Byron McDell, Don Prowal and Don Mellen. Cougars played without defenceman Ray Beech, sitting out the first of a three-game suspension. The suspension resulted from an incident at Esquimalt last Tuesday when Beech drew a game misconduct for using "obscene language."

TWO FOR WILSON

Victoria's top goal-getter, Don Wilson, counted his seventh and eighth goals of the campaign. Cougars' other scorers were Bob Holness and Gary Elmore.

Bob McKean, McDell, Schaefer and Mowrey were Royals' other scorers in a riotous game at Nanaimo that saw 91 minutes in penalties called. Nanaimo drew 61 minutes.

Ted Sarkissian, Alf Wake-lyn, Bernie Martin and Jeff Wilkins fired Nanaimo's goals.

Miller Top Man In Battle Royal

Twelve started, one finished. The one was Dan Miller, who emerged victorious in a 12-man battle royal that featured Saturday's professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

Miller also beat Wild Bill Wright in a preliminary bout. In other prelims, Eric Froelich defeated Paul DeGalle, Gene Kliniski beat George Gordienko, Mike Valente downed Pepe Gonzales and Clyde Steeves drew with Sandor Kovacs.

Martin Put on Spot To Spark Lansdowne

NANAIMO—The accurate kicking of Martin Smith provided Victoria-Lansdowne with top honors in the Vancouver Island junior high school invitational soccer tournament Saturday.

Under tournament regulations, ties are broken by penalty kicks. Each team is awarded three in order to decide the issue.

Smith, taking the kicks for Lansdowne, marked up a perfect six-for-six record.

Lansdowne needed Smith's accuracy in its first game, side-splitting Lake Trail of Courtenay.

Penalty kicks decided the outcome. Smith hit on all three tries and goalie M. McKenzie stopped Oak Bay's third try from the spot to give Lansdowne a 3-2 edge and the title.

ROYAL ROADS BLANKED

Cowichan XV Starts to Pull Away

Cowichan, again getting strong performances from the three-quarter line, is starting to put some "white space" between first place and the rest of the Victoria Rugby Union's first division teams.

Cowichan slapped second-place Royal Roads 15-0 Sunday to move three points ahead of the field.

Derek Hyde-Lay paced the scorers by booting three penalty goals. Peter Clarke and Tom Browne added a try apiece.

Saturday, Oak Bay Wanderers' White team and James Bay both kept pace to move into a tie for third place.

Whites stopped their Red brothers, 19-9, while James Bay beat Navy 14-3.

Bob Wineberg kicked two penalty goals and a convert for JBAA, while Don Hendry and Tim Briggs each added a try.

Whites' strong offense which collected tries from Al Moore,

Bill Gray, Alle Stewart and Bob Hutchison, was too much for Reds. Ray Calton sparked Whites' point-spread with a penalty goal and two converts.

Wally Tate's penalty goal and tries by Dennis Wing and Ross Kirkham accounted for Reds' points.

In junior division action,

PPCLI clipped Sea Cadets 8-3.

NICKEL IN WORLD MARKETS...JOBS FOR CANADIANS

How Canadian Nickel helps irrigate 1000 sq. miles of Australia

The multi-million dollar Snowy Mountain Scheme will irrigate a thousand square miles of previously unproductive land in south eastern Australia. And nickel-alloys will help, just as they do in similar projects in other parts of the world. Why nickel? Because nickel alloys provide strength and corrosion resistance for conduit shafts and other vital equipment. The growth of nickel markets at home and abroad helps strengthen Canada's economy and helps provide more jobs for Canadians.

DRAMATIC RESCUE

'Bare Feet ... Grasping Hands'

LAND'S END, England (AP)—As savage breakers pounded the shattered French trawler Jeanne Gougy, six sailors for whom hope had been abandoned were snatched from death.

"It was the most dramatic life-saving I have ever witnessed," said a coast guard official. "We had given these lads up for lost." Six bodies were found and six other men are missing.

It was the darkest hour, just before dawn Saturday, when the 273-ton fishing craft—with 18 men aboard—was blown onto jagged rocks at Land's End.

Rescue vessels could not push through the 50-foot high waves. Atop the cliffs 500 feet above, would-be rescuers watched helplessly. They could see a pair of bare feet; hands grasping the wheel.

Rescue lines were fired. The waves washed them away. Finally one last effort was made. It caught, watchers could see a hand reach weakly out to grab it. Cheers rose as a sea-battered face emerged from the wheelhouse.

Within minutes, four men were safe, rescued by the breeches buoy line. It seemed the end and for hours there was just the melancholy spectacle of the Jeanne Gougy breaking up on the rocks.

Suddenly a cry: "There's somebody moving down there!"

A bright yellow rescue service helicopter went into action. A lifebelt was lowered but the French crew member was too weak to hold on. Down went

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK — "Stamp, Stamp, the Girls Are Pasting..."

A big Broadway producer, not to be confused with David Merrick, says quite seriously that he's going to give trading stamps with his next show. What stamps to use? "King Kong"? Hardly. That might suggest a corny show.

Suspecting this may spread to every business, I asked my barber for stamps with my haircut. Not only did he refuse... he very wetly insulted me. And out there in Detroit with the Fords and the other millionaire auto builders... what about trading stamps? What an argument! You buy only two more Cadillacs—and you get yourself a free toaster.

Jackie Kennedy's influence is clearly seen in smart spots where now so many women wear sheaths (straight up and down instead of full skirts). As Mrs. Beldon Katheman says, "Women who don't dress that way look very unseamy." John Daly's lovely wife Virginia Warren is mother of a 6-lb, 11-oz. red-haired son (after a Caesarian) at Harkness Pavilion. Her mother, wife of the Chief Justice, as well as the ecstatic father John, were with her. Asked what the son'll be named, Daly exclaimed, "I don't know—I haven't talked to the boss yet."

Guess there'll be arguments about Tony Martin's clowning while singing in his Americana opening but I thought he was his greatest. Five bravos and three cheers!

Acknowledging the Florida look of the hotel, he said, "Welcome to the Eden Roc." Eddie Fisher, there for his second show, heard Tony say Hollywood was doing the Tony Martin Story and Bobby Rydell, Par

Boone and Bobby Darin were suggested to play him. "How about Eddie Fisher?" somebody asked and Tony screamed: "I'd like to play his life!"

Tony brought some mirth to town—friends were discussing his short-of-stature friend Irving Lazar, the agent, who has a Rolls which he drives but he "has to look under the steering wheel"—in fact, so they said, "he's going to have his trouser seats elevated."

Dog-Walkers, a salute to Gretchen Wyler, who "walks" her 185-pound Great Dane pup "Kahn" a mile every night... sitting on the tailgate of a station wagon driven by her husband Shepherd Coleman, at their home near Warwick. The dog, winner of four championships, must lounge along at eight miles an hour, while Gretchen holds him on a 6-ft "lead." Strangely, this is the first dog Gretchen ever owned.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Red Buttons, who discussed conditioned reflex therapy on the Johnny Carson TVer, got a call from Washington asking more about it... Why was Joan Collins sitting with Tony Newley in the Leonardo da Vinci the other night, weeping?... The proposed TV filming of Eddie Fisher's Winter Garden show (which ends Saturday) is still being discussed... Ann Southern brought her pretty daughter Letitia to Erik's... Cara Williams showed off her new $7,500 car at Monsignore before driving to H'wood... Linda Christian, who lost 100Gs in jewels to burglars, was at El Morocco, diamondless.

Floyd Patterson's title loss isn't hurting his book sales...

No End in Sight To Herring Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking herring fishermen say they are determined to stay ashore until operators offer substantial price improvements.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the Independent United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said a membership meeting Friday decided to adjourn negotiations until there is a price increase offer.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select the first question answerer each day receives a 30-minute set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second answerer a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Joan Accardi, age 11, of Huntsville, Alabama, for her question:

How does the ermine change color?

This busy little chicken thief and his relatives live all over the land where there are plenty of birds and smallish animals. His luxurious coat always blends in with his background and it becomes white only where winter covers the ground with snow. His cousins, who live in the warm south, wear coats of taffy brown and honey color all year round.

The elegant ermine is, actually a weasel in disguise. He is a blood-thirsty little hunter and one of the few animals who kill for the sport of killing. Every year he murders countless of our enemies the rats and mice—a fact we should remember when he forgets his manners and raids our chicken coops. Such a restless hunter must be able to sneak up on his victims—which is why he wears a coat to blend in with his background.

The weasel that changes in to an ermine lives in the northland where the ground is covered with a snow-white blanket for months on end. The first snows arrive in the fall. They may melt or stay around in patches and the blanket of wintry white covers the ground gradually. The weasel takes his cue from the weather. The change from his summer coat of browns and tans to his winter coat of white is also a gradual process.

After the first snow, a few patches of summery brown fur molt away and luxurious white fur grows in to replace them. For a while, the sleek fellow is marked like a pinto pony with patches of white and brown. It may take 10 days to three weeks before the change of clothing is complete. The weasel is now a snow white ermine and all that remains of his summertime garb is a black tip at the end of his silken tail.

His winter coat is thick and dense for extra warmth and the little hunter is clothed in rich, ermine, the fur of kings.

Cousin of Aristocrats

He belongs to the best dressed family in the whole animal kingdom. The weasel, alias the ermine, is cousin to the high-priced mink, the high quality martin, the precious otter and the luxurious sable.

His sleek body is about 10 inches long plus about five inches of pencil thin tail. His graceful movements are lithe and quick. And his slender body is a small powerhouse of slithering muscles.

In summer the weasels living in warm and temperate regions wear silken coats of taffy brown. The southern cousins keep the same color scheme all year. Those living farther north shed their browns and become white to match the winter snow. Those living in the Arctic wear honey colors during the summer and change to white in the winter. But every one of them wears that proud black tip at the end of his tail summer and winter.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Linda Sullivan, age 12, of Boise, Idaho, for her question: Does a porcupine lay eggs?

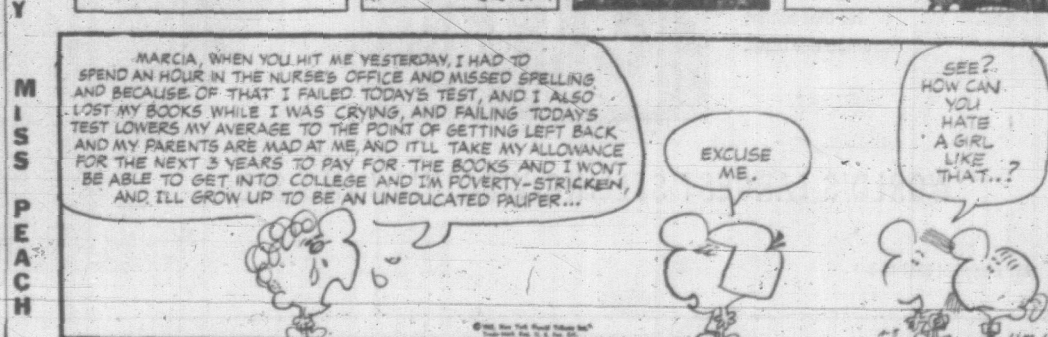

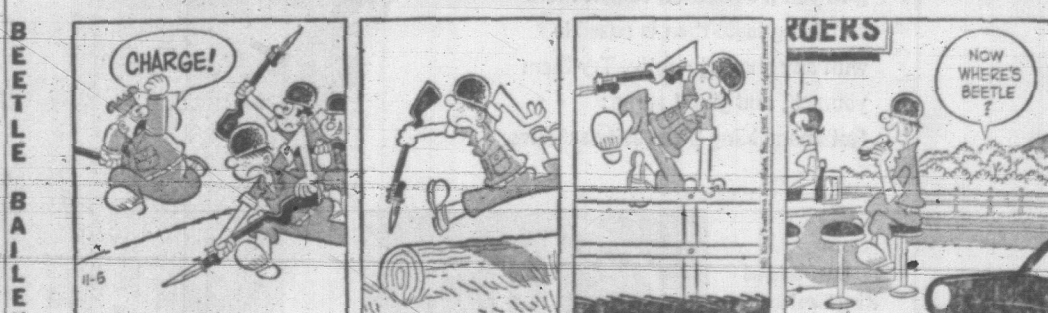

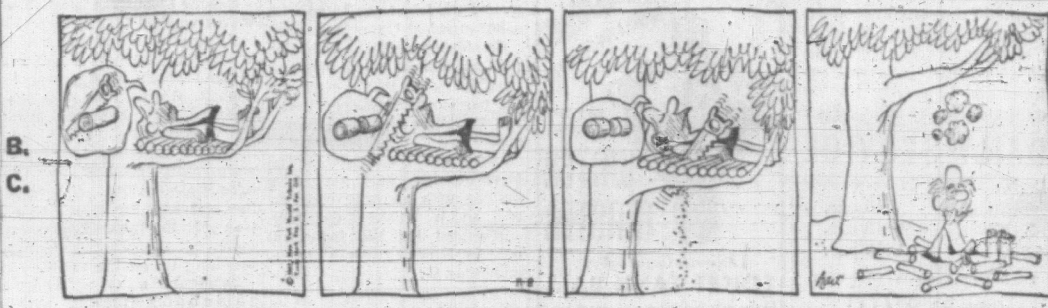

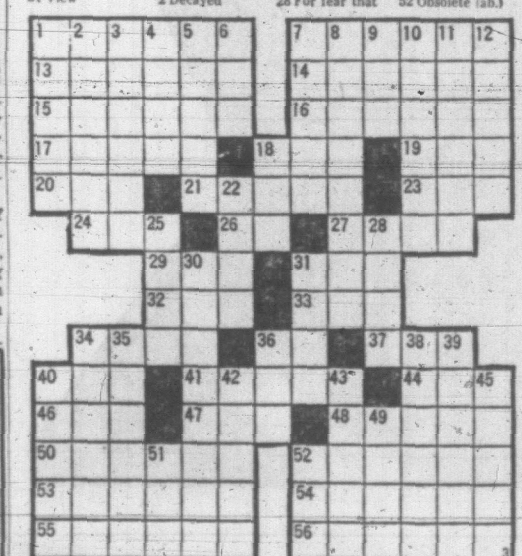

The porcupine is a mammal and mammal babies are born alive. This, you might think, would be very painful to Mama Porcupine and it might be more practical to hatch Junior from an egg. But you can stop worrying. At birth Junior's prickles are soft as strips of plastic. They do not become stiff for several days.

Junior is usually an only child. He is bigger than a baby bear cub and weighs a pound. His bright eyes are alert and he is ready to cope with the world from the start. Mama nurses him only a few days, but she spends several months giving him a proper porcupine education.

Robert Ryan of "Mr. President" recalls that when the show played Washington, JFK chatted with him and asked, "Mr. Ryan, do you have any brothers in your line of work?"... That's earl, brother.

GRATIFYING SYMPHONY PERFORMANCE

High Standard Maintained In Orchestra's New Works

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

One of the gauges by which the stature of a symphony orchestra is estimated is the extent and quality of its repertoire, particularly as regards the number of contemporary and new works it includes in each season.

The onus lies with the conductor, who is solely responsible for program building. But he must have at his disposal a group of players capable of assimilating new scores within a short period.

Without the aid of no matter how much he may wish to premiere a new work, his scope is limited.

In the second pair of concerts for this season, heard

Sunday afternoon at the Royal Theatre and to be repeated tonight, Hans Gruber directed Victoria Symphony Orchestra in one world premiere and another work not played by the orchestra in any previous season.

Vancouver composer Jean Coulthard's Fantasy for violin and piano and chamber orchestra was being heard for the first time anywhere.

REWARDING. Soloists, for whom the work was specially written, were violinist Thomas Rolston and pianist Isobel Moore.

Impression conveyed by the single hearing was of music infinitely regarding to the solo instruments, the product of a fine musical imagination and considerable resource in the thematic invention and development.

That composer, conductor and soloists share a profound instinct for the poetical-rhapsodic mood was evident. This "rapport" resulted in a gratifying performance.

One could only wish now that it were possible to hear the same ensemble repeat the work after a period of gestation, specifically for the sake of the orchestra.

FINE ARTISTRY. From the period of the late 19th Century but in the same spirit of romance, the Chausson Piano-Violin Concerto further enhanced the impression of a fine dual artistry on the part of the husband-and-wife team.

This charming elegant music with its momentary flashes of virtuosic fire and its reflective cantabile, subordinated the chamber orchestra to a muted background.

HAPPY CHOICE. For a pianist with the silvery touch, keyboard facility, and warmth of temperament of Isobel Moore, and a violinist with Rolston's command of tonal color and fluent shapeliness of phrase, however, the composition was a "happy choice."

Weber's "Oberon" Overture and Dvorak's E minor Symphony No. 5 ("New World") brought the full orchestra into play.

Except for the final movement of the symphony, in which there were one or two brief uncertainties, the impression was once again one of heightened technical and artistic competence.

BETTER BLEND.

A redistribution of the brass by Mr. Gruber, which places the dominating trombones and trumpets to the left and raises the mellow-toned French horns at the back, has resulted in an improved blending and balancing of tone.

This with the noticeable progress in the string choir has much to do with the excellent standard this season has already established.

The slow movement of the "New World" was a gem in performance atmospheric, poised, with a fine dynamic balance and secure, fluent woodwinds.

Tests Called Inadequate

An intelligence test is not the most intelligent way to test the intelligence of a child at school, according to Dr. Charles Gregory, director of Victoria Mental Health Centre.

He told the Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children that all such tests do is show that a particular child, at a particular time, reacted in a particular way.

Dr. Gregory said such an assessment would be different a year or even a day after the test. He warned that the results of I.Q. tests must be read with great caution.

Catholics Study Changes in Mass

Pope Starts 5th Year Of Reign

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John began the fifth year of his reign Sunday in an aura of splendor—and at a decisive period in the life of the Roman Catholic Church.

The church stands, he said, in the midst of "an event unsurpassed in the history of previous centuries."

Gathered around him were bishops from throughout the world, here for the Vatican ecumenical council.

Some 10,000 persons, including members of the diplomatic corps, thronged St. Peter's Basilica for stirring pageantry and prayer invoking God's blessing on the 80-year-old pontiff.

It was the fourth anniversary of the coronation of the Pope, who has made the summoning of the council, the first in 92 years, the paramount act of his reign.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Proposals for the most extensive changes in the Roman Catholic mass in 300 years were made public today.

The suggested revisions were placed before the Vatican ecumenical council, which resumed its work after a four-day recess. A council communique today outlined some of the proposals being discussed by the assembled cardinals, archbishops, and bishops. Among them:

1. Fewer prayers at the foot of the altar as mass begins.
2. Participation of the congregation in the offertory prayers now said only by the priest.
3. Insertion of a prayer to St. Joseph, as well as to Mary, in one part of the mass.
4. Reading from the pulpit of the Prayers and Lessons which precede the gospel.
5. Ending the mass with a blessing and the Latin words "ite missa est" (go, the mass is finished). The blessing now comes near the end of the mass, before a final reading from the gospel.

The communique said, however, council discussions have re-emphasized "the need for prudence in revising words, gestures and prayers—things which have acquired through the centuries great nobility without losing their original significance."

Mass Korea Arrests

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Police have arrested 13,749 persons in Seoul during the last 15 days for violations of various laws and regulations in another anti-crime drive. Among those arrested were traffic violators, narcotic dealers, businessmen issuing bad cheques and black market dealers.

London told a meeting of the CAC's Southwestern Ontario region that the publication is expected to cost some $35,000 in its first year. Four to six issues are to be printed in the period.

"We feel the Canadian magazine will be a success," she said, "and we know interest is keen on consumer-tested merchandise because the U.S. publication has some 55,000 Canadian subscribers."

She said the first issue of the publication will carry comparison reports on some common drugs, electrical appliances and fabrics. She emphasized that the magazine will not replace a CAC newsletter distributed to Ontario branches.

ON PAYMENTS TO MUNICIPALITIES

Is Hydro Short-Changing?

By JOHN MIKA
Times City Hall Reporter
Serious concern, bordering on fear, was felt by civic leaders here when the provincial government took over one of the area's biggest taxpayers last year—B.C. Electric.

In Greater Victoria municipalities, B.C. Electric's contribution to general and school revenues was about one mill on the average.

This month, a total of $233,431 will be distributed to municipal councils and school boards in the Greater Victoria area by the merged B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

LITTLE MORE

That's a little more than was received from the former publicly-owned B.C. Power Commission and the privately-owned B.C. Electric last year.

Understandably, councillors who feared that the new government utility would refuse to pay taxes directly or indirectly are breathing a sigh of relief.

NOT ENOUGH

However, an argument has been raised in Oak Bay that the payments are not enough. This contention is that the Greater Victoria and lower mainland areas are being short-changed because the old B.C. Electric formula of paying taxes is being used instead of the B.C. Power Commission's system.

Here's how the two were based: BCE paid municipalities 1 per cent of gross revenue in lieu of taxes on power poles, lines and gas mains, as well as property taxes on buildings and school taxes; BCPC paid municipalities it served 3 per cent of gross revenues.

Oak Bay this year will receive $8,755 directly from B.C. Hydro—using the BCE 1 per cent formula—and in addition some $3,500 will be paid on its behalf to the school board for a total hydro contribution of $12,255 on its utility services.

The municipality also will receive about $5,000 in transit franchise fees. It won't receive any grants in lieu of real property tax because it has no buildings in Oak Bay.

But, the argument goes, if the BCPC system were used here Oak Bay would have received $19,000.

GLASGOW (AP) — Hens are being used in cigarette smoking experiments by British scientists investigating lung cancer. Scientists chose hens for experiments at Glasgow's Royal Brompton Memorial Hospital because the air sacs in their necks resemble the human lung.

THREE MEN CHARGED

Vote Fraud Bid Rocks Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—A case of alleged conspiracy to violate the Quebec Elections Act by means of counterfeit voters' slips has burst on the provincial election campaign scene like a bombshell.

Union Nationale leader Daniel Johnson, speaking in Montreal and Quebec during the weekend, called it "a Machiavellian scheme" and "a childish frame-up" to smear the Union Nationale before voting day Nov. 14.

Premier Lesage, campaigning in the Eastern Townships, replied: "It smells of the Union Nationale."

Earlier, in Chicoutimi, he said: "It's organized telegraphing." (Impersonation of voters).

Three men, including Andre Lagarde, chief Union Nationale organizer in Montreal, face charges of conspiring to utter forged documents, conspiring to violate the Elections Act, and with aiding and abetting others to commit a crime.

Mr. Lagarde is free on $1,500 cash bail, set at his arraignment Saturday, pending his preliminary hearing next Friday.

MAKE ARREST

Provincial police are holding Omer Fontaine on the same three charges. He was arrested late Friday night in a Montreal railway station when, police said, he approached a locker containing 4,000 fake voters' slips.

Gaston Archambault, a private detective and former homicide squad detective with the provincial police, gave himself up Sunday and was freed on $1,500 bail pending his arraignment today.

Crown prosecutor Guy Desjardins of Montreal said packages of fake voters' slips were found addressed to former municipal affairs minister Paul Dozois, Union Nationale candidate in Montreal St. James, and to Edgar Charbonneau, Union Nationale candidate in Montreal St. Mary's.

Both said on television and in public meetings that they are not involved.

Mr. Johnson said the two are "untouchable."

The slips are given to voters by enumerators and must be shown as identification to vote in Montreal and Quebec City ridings.

MONTREAL (CP) — Separatist leader Marcel Chaput said Sunday that if he is elected in Montreal Bourget in Quebec's general election Nov. 14 he will refuse to swear allegiance to the Queen.

This could disqualify him from taking his seat in the legislature.

Mr. Chaput, who resigned as president of the separatist movement Le Rassemblement Pour l'Independance Nationale to run as an independent candidate, said Quebec is the world's last colony.

He said he decided to run in the east-end Bourget riding because "it is the riding in Quebec most flagrantly dominated by foreign capital, and the fight in Bourget is a fight for liberation from foreign capitalists."

MacPowell, IWA Fight Delayed Until Nov. 20

First round in a legal battle between MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. and the IWA was postponed in police court at Port Alberni today until Nov. 20.

The dispute arose over a work stoppage in August that caused the layoff of almost 500 men employed at the Sossom Division of the giant lumber company.

The union has been charged by the company with striking illegally and the union claiming an illegal lockout.

Robert E. Smart, 2936 Quadra, was fined $50 in city police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace early Sunday morning in a downtown cafe.

He was arrested after police were called to the Melrose Cafe, 622 Yates, where several youths were alleged to have refused to pay for a meal.

11 DAYS LEFT IN UNITED APPEAL COUNTDOWN

The Victoria United Appeal "countdown" shows there are 11 days left in the fund drive to collect $74,000.

The campaign got off to a better start than usual this week as $3,000 was turned in over the weekend to swell the total to $286,108 which is 81.5 per cent of the $350,000 target.

Residential returns have reached 70 per cent of a $70,000 objective with $49,179 collected so far.

The United Appeal information booth at Yates and Douglas was re-opened today in an effort to bolster residential division totals.

N.Y. MINISTER UNIMPRESSED WITH PHILOSOPHER

Lord Russell Has 'Lot to Learn'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

British philosopher Lord Bertrand Russell has "an awful lot to learn about life," Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell of New York told a large congregation in First United Church Sunday night.

Dr. Bonnell said Lord Russell had made the "very irresponsible" statement that people "should not exercise overmuch self-control, because it can become a suit of armor that weighs you down."

"SORDID" CASE

"Lord Russell may be a great philosopher but he has messed up his own life pretty badly," Dr. Bonnell declared. "His last divorce was described by a British judge as one of the most sordid cases he had ever heard."

Concluding a week-long preaching mission at First United, Dr. Bonnell said Lord Russell was far from being a good example to the present generation.

"This generation is deplorably lacking in self-control—it is ruled by impulse and design rather than by decent moral standards of living."

"Self-control doesn't mean a diminution of life—it heightens life and gives it meaning and purpose. The most bored and surfeited people in the world today are those who do just as they like.

"Many of them are chain smokers and chain drinkers—and that means living in chains."

As an example of self-control, Dr. Bonnell mentioned U.S. astronaut John Glenn, who orbited the earth in a space rocket. He had to exercise "complete self-mastery" in carrying out his perilous assignment.

"Had he deviated from his course by one degree he might have been reduced to a heap of ashes."

Dr. Bonnell said the first step towards self-mastery is

"the ability to know yourself and your true motivations."

"Psychoanalysis has helped many people, but in some cases it has proved so devastating in its revelations that the subjects couldn't take it. They couldn't face up to their true selves."

Bennett to Seek Peace Financing

Visit to New York Set for Mid-Month

Premier Bennett announced today he is going to New York again this month to lay the groundwork for Peace River power financing.

He will leave Nov. 17 or 18 and spend three or four days there.

Deputy Finance Minister G. S. Bryson will go with him.

Mr. Bennett said the first reason for the trip is to complete a long-term loan for one of B.C.'s crown agencies—B.C. Hydro, the PGE Railway or the Toll Authority. The deal was arranged on his last New York trip in October.

He did not disclose which agency of how much the loan will be.

The premier said this time he will also discuss financing the Peace River project.

First stage—up to power production from the main dam in 1968—will cost about $400,000,000.

"I will be laying the groundwork for it," said Mr. Bennett. "This doesn't mean we will raise the money there—we want to make sure we get the right interest rate."

However he will sound out U.S. financiers on offers.

WHAT RATE?

Mr. Bennett said he has "no doubt at all" that B.C. can get the money for the Peace; the only questions in his mind are where, when and at what interest rate.

He said he will not discuss Columbia River power financing in New York "because the Columbia is not finalized."

The project is stalled pending a deal with the Americans for sale of the downstream benefits for enough money to pay for three B.C. dams and generators at the biggest—Mica Creek.

These negotiations are in the hands of B.C. Hydro "technical experts" and they have been postponed until after Tuesday's U.S. congressional elections.

"There will be meetings in due course," said the premier. He said he will also ask investors in New York about other B.C. prospects.

RISK CAPITAL

"We are inducing capital to come into the province—risk capital," he said.

Mr. Bennett said he is leaving Tuesday to take his wife for a holiday at Palm Springs, Calif.

The trip is because doctors suggested Mrs. Bennett go to a warmer climate for a while. She was 13 weeks in hospital this summer after a back operation.

Mr. Bennett said he will return alone to B.C. next week to make preparations for the next session of the legislature and his New York trip.

NO ELECTION DATE

He did not—as expected—announce the date of the Point Grey byelection.

He said the announcement could come from the cabinet while he is away.

The byelection is expected in December to fill the vacancy in the legislature caused by the death last August of Mrs. Buda Brown, minister without portfolio.

Cleric Leaves Soon On Toronto Posting

Rev. A. L. Higgins, minister at First United Church for the past seven years, is leaving here next week to become minister of an old-established United Church in Toronto.

He declined to give the name of the church today, but said he was looking forward to the new pastorate.

"In some ways I shall be sorry to leave Victoria, but I know I am taking the right step. For one thing, the new living will be nearer my family in Nova Scotia."

RECEPTION SUNDAY

Rumors of Mr. Higgins' departure from First United have been current for some time. They were not confirmed until the church announced a "farewell reception" for him in the Fellowship Hall next Sunday evening.

"For special reasons I do not wish to give the name of my new church," he said.

Born at Truro, N.S., Mr. Higgins was known during the Second World War as "the flying padre." He succeeded Rev. Moir Waters as minister of First United in October 1955.

WIDELY TRAVELLED

His travels as a chaplain with the RCAF took him to Africa, Europe, India, Ceylon, and he used the opportunity to study mission work in those countries.

Educated at Dalhousie University and Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, Mr. Higgins served pastorates at Middleton and Wesley Memorial, Moncton, N.B., and was minister of MacKay United Church, Ottawa, from 1948 to 1955.

REV. A. L. HIGGINS

Mrs. Higgins was formerly Dorothy Welch, whose father was well known in shipping circles. She was born in Nova Scotia and attended Acadia College.

MONTE ROBERTS

As I was saying Friday, this is National Cat Week, and I may as well try to capitalize on it to the extent of another column.

A chore made easy for me by Florence (friend of all the animals) Barry, who sends along a copy of The Cat, the official publication of the Cat's Protection League, published at Prestbury Lodge, 29 Church Street, Slough, Bucks.

Ever ready to be of assistance when a feline needs a friend, this excellent publication once again seeks homes for an assortment charmingly described by placement counselor Mrs. de Clifford as follows:

1. Expert sardine taster seeks a wider field. Would undertake pilchards and tinned salmon if required.

2. Remarkable opportunity. Go-ahead dairy farmer can obtain services of a true connoisseur of cream.

3. Handsome young Manxman seeks society where tails are not generally worn, even on formal occasions.

4. Chef's assistant would like greater responsibility. Can cope with up to eight or ten servings a day.

5. Overseer would like new post. Will superintend all activities in home and garden. Loads of executive ability, used to making decisions and having orders obeyed.

6. Fishmonger's aid, at present unengaged. Hard worker, speedy at cleaning up.

7. Small tabby cat wants employment as scare-crow—or would act equally well as scare-sparrow. Will not tackle pigeons.

8. Anxious mother wishes to present fair young daughters—will London hostesses please help with debuts? (Two tabby and one all black.)

9. Owner of very loud purr, would like to live with someone hard of hearing.

10. Small stout party wants home with room for regular exercise.

11. Black gentleman seeks suitable setting. Likes white-paintwork for contrast.

12. White lady (with small patches) would fit prettily into any modern decor.

The talented and witty Mrs. de Clifford (her address is 12 The Close, New Malden, Surrey) makes all her clients sound so attractive it is a pity they are so far away from Victoria.

But never fear.

(If you'd like the joy of pampering a pet kitten or picking up the tab for a tabby, just telephone the Cat's Protection League, Victoria Branch, or the SPCA (they're both in the book.)

You'll find you have lots from which to choose—it is an unfortunate fact that the supply perpetually exceeds the demand.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

An elderly woman pedestrian was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday afternoon after she was in collision with a car at the intersection of Cook and Oxford Streets.

Elizabeth Eastes, 79, 307 Vancouver, was sent home after being treated.

Driver of the car was Mrs. Hilda Russell, 1260 Topaz. Police action is pending.

Driver of a car which was heavily damaged by crashing into a tree at Cadboro Bay and Cedar Hill Cross Road early Sunday escaped serious injury.

Mervyn Johnson, 24, 636, Kev. was admitted to Jubilee Hospital where he was taken by Oak Bay police. He was treated for shock and released today.

His car skidded into the east boulevard on Cadboro Bay at the Cedar Hill Cross Road intersection, hitting a tree, about 3:30 a.m.

Victoria local of the Socialist Party of Canada will hold its monthly business meeting at 1280 Pike Street tonight at 8.

Courtenay and Cumberland telephone exchanges were successfully converted to dial operation at 11:01 p.m. Saturday, the B.C. Telephone Company reported today.

New buildings in Cumberland and Comox—a new addition to the Courtenay building—house the new automatic equipment, which serves about 5,300 telephones.

Also converted to automatic service was the Hornby-Denman Islands exchange.

Approximate cost of the conversion was $1,400,000.

Victoria Lions Club is hoping motorists will remember the family car at Christmas by giving it a pair of seat belts.

The club has sold and installed about 650 belts in the past two months and plan another big drive around the Yuletide season.

As sales have been lagging lately, the Lions do not find it necessary to install belts every weekend at Money's Body.

Wait until sales warrant another installation session.

"An Accent on Education," the second lecture of a series presented by the Gordon Head PTA, is scheduled Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school.

Vice-Principal W. M. Harris will hold a demonstration lesson in Social Studies.

Winners of the weekly tournament conducted by the Victoria Unit of the American Contract Bridge League were: I. Gordon Rodger and George Morgan; 2. Gwen Brown and Eric Goodwin; 3. Otto Leestment and Bud Waddington; tie for 4th, Ethel Cleworth and Les Stewart and Laura Tingley and Molly Collins.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Slippers and Other Gifts For Christmas Stockings

By Penny Saver

Penny has come to the conclusion that the life of one pair of slippers is only so long, no matter what you do to try to extend it. You can darn, patch with cardboard or stick them together with adhesive tape but eventually you have to admit they have had their day.

Having reluctantly admitted this fact, I went looking for a replacement. I wanted something that could be worn in the bedroom, or with a pair of slacks for a quick trip to the mailbox.

After turning many slipper departments upside down I finally came across hand-made moccasins with sheep skin lining. Slippers are made of plain or oiled cowhide leather, lined or unlined, or lined seal skin. Any size for children or adults can be ordered, if not in stock. Price ranges between $3.95 and $12.95.

This may sound expensive but you must remember that they will outwear half a dozen pairs of ordinary style bedroom slippers.

This is a good practical item to keep in mind while Christmas shopping.

In the same store you can buy a roll-away shoe shine cloth for one dollar and this is a useful gift to help fill up Christmas stockings.

If your friends are already well supplied with foot wear another gift with a touch of practicality is a brush for car use. Besides a brush it has a hard rubber-toothed edge and a flat edge which quickly scrapes off dew, frost or mud from the windshield. It all fits into a leather case which clips on to the visor of the car. The price: $2.50.

To find out where to go Christmas shopping phone Penny at 382-1131.

Morhart-Longbottom Vows Heard In Recent Ceremony

Bouquets of Talisman roses decorated St. Andrew's Cathedral for the recent marriage of Jo Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Longbottom, 3898 Swan Lake Road, and Wesley Morhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Morhart, 930 Fairfield Road. Pews were marked with white ribbons.

Fr. M. T. O'Connell heard the marriage vows.

Given in marriage, by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk taffeta and Alencon lace that swept back to a cathedral train. Seed pearls and opalescent sequins enhanced the basque bodice which featured cap sleeves. The puffed skirt was gathered at the sides and accented in front with a bow. A coronet of seed pearls held her finger-tip veil. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, white feathered chrysanthemums and golden leaves.

Bridesmatron, Mrs. H. Sadler and bridesmaids, Miss Teresa Leggett and Miss Nancy Mann wore bell-skirted jade green taffeta dresses and toning feather and net whimsies. They carried bronze chrysanthemums mounted on white Oriental fans.

A green sash highlighted the white nylon frock worn by flower girl, Miss Sherry Robinson. Bronze chrysanthemums were in her basket and on her bandeau.

Ed Morhart was best man. Ushers were Ron Longbottom and Howard Sadler.

Yellow candles and bronze chrysanthemums decorated the tables for the 200 guests at a reception held in Holyrood House. Talisman roses and white candles were on the bride's table. Howard Longbottom proposed the toast to her happiness.

Leaving for a honeymoon in Washington the bride donned a dark brown, three-piece knit suit, beige accessories and a pink orchid corsage.

The couple will live at 529 Selkirk Street.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't allow your waist to go to waste in rolls of fat! Nothing adds more grace to the feminine figure than a slim waistline and no measurement takes on a matronly appearance more quickly when neglected. Fortunately this is one of the easiest spots to reduce.

Lowman

Today let me prescribe a few of these slimming motions with the prescription, "Take each 15 times daily."

Capsule 1. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Bend your elbows and clasp your hands on top of your head. Keep your arms and hands in this position as you bend forward, trying to touch your left knee with your right elbow. Raise your trunk and continue, alternating left and right.

Capsule 2. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor, extending out from shoulders. Palms cling to the floor. Bend your right knee and bring it across your body, trying to touch your right knee to the floor on the left side of your body. Return knee to former position and then straighten your leg and return it to the floor. This time bend your left knee and try to touch the floor with it on the right side of your body. Continue, alternating. This latter exercise not only gives the waist a good twist but is slimming to the hips, too.

If you would like to have the exercises I have used in my classes with such success in reducing the waistline, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 6. Address: Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Trying to touch the left knee with the right elbow while in this position may be frustrating—but it will slim your waist.

DEAR ABBY...

It's a Fact!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Approximately 25 years ago, as a United Press reporter, I covered (from the surface) a wedding in which all participants were clad in diving suits of the bulky, weighty type, with helmets and air hoses to the surface. The ceremony took place on the floor of Green Lake in the city of Seattle. The words of the ritual, along with the bubbles, came to the surface over a loudspeaker. A crisis arose when the clergyman's vestments developed a small leak, but he managed to pronounce the happy couple man and wife before the situation became critical. I never did hear whether the marriage remained solid or was dissolved. WILFRED-BROWN.

DEAR ABBY: I recall reading about a couple from Atlanta, Georgia, who fell in love while diving, and wanted to be married under water. They had their underwater wedding, but the Methodist Bishop of Atlanta thought they should take "the plunge" in a more spiritual atmosphere, so he married them again, on land, the same day.

DEAR ABBY: On March 8, 1954, Bob Smith married Mary Beth Sanger at the Aquarena in San Marcos, Texas. This was, I am sure, the first underwater wedding on record. The bride's flowers, gown and veil had been waterproofed and so had the grooms' tuxedo. Even the wedding cake and Bible were under water, so I suppose they were also waterproofed. They had bridesmaids and ushers just like a dry-land wedding. The only difficult part was that they all had to have 25 pound weights in their shoes to keep from floating around.

READ ABOUT IT.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old and want to get married old and wait to get married on the moon. Do you think they will have a rocket ship that will get to the moon by the time I am old enough to get hitched?

DEAR NEAL: Hitch your wagon to a star, son. Your chances are good. (And if you have a sister, take her along. I understand there is a man in the moon.)

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, California.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Brighten Mold—Juicy ruby red grapes and nuts provide crispness in this fruit mold. Prepare pineapple-orange gelatin as package directs and chill until partially set. Fold in pecans, halved and seeded grapes and drained canned pineapple chunks. Chill until firm. For salad, combine blue cheese, dairy sour cream and mayonnaise as dressing. Or serve the mold as dessert with a topping of blended whipped cream and honey.

Rapid-Fire Dessert—Serve "peaches and cream" with a delicious difference. Sweeten dairy sour cream with a spoonful of powdered sugar. Swirl over canned peach halves in shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with toasted coconut flakes and broil lightly. Grand for a quick dessert!

Hearty Hors d'Oeuvres—Try this exciting appetizer at your next party. Combine instant minced onion with a small amount of lemon juice and soy sauce. Mix with flaked crabmeat, finely-chopped water chestnuts and sufficient mayonnaise for spreading consistency. Serve on crisp sesame seed crackers or rye bread rounds.

Couple Wed in Sask. Now Living in Victoria

Now living in Victoria are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robert James Moore. They were married in Moosomin United Church at Moosomin, Sask.

The bride, Phyllis Marjory, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Phil of Moosomin, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Moore of Victoria.

Standards of large white chrysanthemums against a background of palms and ferns provided the setting for the double-ring ceremony. Rev. Nelson Hutchison of McAuley, Man., officiated.

BRIDE'S GOWN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white crystal taffeta, styled with a portrait neckline and full skirt. Alencon lace appliques enhanced the shirred bodice. Chapel-length veil misted from a lace crown, highlighted with pearls and rhinestones. Only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of English ivy centred with an orchid.

Soloist, Allan Steen, sang "The Wedding Benediction" as the bride entered the church and "This Is Our Day" during signing of the register. Accompanist was Miss Louise Chapman.

ATTENDANTS IN BLUE

Matron of honor, Mrs. J. Elmslie; bridesmaid, Mrs. G. Andrew, and bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Dunn, wore identical dresses of sapphire-blue de-lustrated satin. Tiny veils skirted their matching pill-box hats. Engraved sterling silver earrings, gift of the bride, was the only jewelry. They carried pink carnations.

Allan Moore, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Orest Hykawy and Jack Green.

Three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white candles in silver candelabra, centred the bride's table at reception held in the church parlor. Completing the decor were sprays of gold and bronze chrysanthemums. Jack Wilde proposed the toast.

Leaving for a honeymoon in southern California the bride donned a brown three-piece knit suit, toning accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McKeown are pictured as they cut their wedding cake at a reception in the Carlton Club, following their marriage in St. Matthias Church. Mrs. McKeown is the former Miss Joan Margaret Whitwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Whitwell, 1921 Crescent Rd. Groom's parents are Mrs. and Mrs. John McKeown, Sr., of Saskatoon. ## Well! Maybe It Is Spring!

NEW YORK (AP)—A spring fashion market opened here on a Gaba-gloomy note but designer Ann Klein did her bit to cheer up matters by showing shapely ladies in a dozen versions of men's hitherto shapeless shirts.

Women who are adapted to the shirt dress made a classic by Grace Kelly will now have to adjust to the shirt jumper, shirt coat, shirt suit, shirt jacket and the really, really shirt dress.

The things that all of the shirts have in common are notched collars, bodices with smock-like yokes and long cuffed sleeves. All are generously cut at the top, waistless and usually loosely belted with tie strings.

Shirt jackets, the slipover kind and the button-down kind, are so long they are just short of being dresses.

Miss Klein also took over sweaters in the "his" closets and grew them into dresses. Sleeveless, V-neck and T-shirt types in soft pastels skimmed over rail-thin bodies of smileless models with long, thick lashes.

What The Marriage Manuals DON'T Say

Did you know that almost every marriage manual written since 200 B.C. has judged women by masculine standards? A forthright article in November Reader's Digest reveals that in all the discussion of marriage and sex some fundamental facts about the relationship between men and women are being overlooked. Get your copy of Reader's Digest and read how you can explore a completely new road to true compatibility.

Home Spun New For Winter

Homespun is due for big revival this season. Cotton homespun is a tightly woven fabric with coarse threads. It features a natural, "woven-at-home" look. Because of its interesting texture and somewhat irregular threads, homespun is a favorite choice for styles with the new simplified silhouettes. New homespun prints range from colorful abstracts to old Far East designs. The warm earthy colors such as rust, copper and spice are popular solid colors in fall and winter lines.

SWIMS
BOSPHOROUS

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—A U.S. skin diver, Fred Baldassar, fighting tricky currents, chilling waters and heavy boat traffic, swam the Bosphorus Straits both ways underwater Sunday.

It was the first time the feat had been achieved.

Baldassar, 38, from New York, took 23 minutes, 38 seconds to swim from the Asian to the European side of the Bosphorus near the Istanbul suburb of Rumeli Hisar.

SAFETY PLAN

Elmer Needs
Gov't Help

Kiwanis School Junior Safety Committee is seeking provincial government financial support for its Elmer, the Safety Elephant, program.

At a recent meeting, a committee was set up to approach Provincial Secretary, Wesley Black and Education Minister Leslie Peterson for funds to replace those donated by the Victoria Kiwanis Club but now depleted.

The club donated originally $300 to the program, which calls for setting up of a flag in each school, symbolizing the fact that no children from the school have been involved in traffic accidents through their own fault.

If a member of the school is involved in such an accident, the flag is lowered for 30 days.

However, the program includes color posters and other equipment necessary for traffic safety education, which the committee cannot purchase without financial backing.

At the same time, the committee will seek wider support from Greater Victoria school principals for the program as a whole. Chairman of the committee, Bob Irwin, and traffic inspector Brooke Douglass, will address principals this evening, seeking this support.

The program already exists in five O.K. Bay, four city and three private schools. Esquimalt and Saanich have not followed suit so far.

CAMPBELL RIVER — More than 40 parents have registered for a class in "new arithmetic." The class is designed to acquaint parents with the new arithmetic now being taught their children.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The CRRRA will host the North Island gymnastic championships here on Dec. 8.

Competitions will be held for boys and girls from six to 14. Champions will be declared in all events and all-around champions in each age group.

About 300 youngsters are expected to compete in the event being held in Campbell River for the first time.

Parley Called On Community
Centre Project

DUNCAN — The Kinsmen Club will sponsor a meeting Thursday, Nov. 22, to discuss possibility of building a $400,000 community centre for the district.

All Duncan and district service clubs, and the general public will be invited to the meeting in Duncan Fire Hall.

Several proposals will be brought forward by Bob Evans, a special committee chairman.

Mayor Pete Matton of Nanaimo, arena manager Harry Wippen and Robert Strachan, MLA for Cowichan-Newcastle, will attend.

"Federal and provincial government grants will be available if the planned project is also used for agricultural purposes," Mr. Evans said.

The most popular idea of the committee is an arena-type building for ice skating, hockey games, exhibitions, travelling shows and concerts.

NANAIMO — A 30-foot gill-netter, owned by Joe Rice of Ladysmith, was heavily damaged by fire near here this weekend and beached on Round Island.

The owner was not injured when the vessel's cabin was wrecked in an explosion.

NANAIMO — RCMP are not easing up in their investigation of the murder of two teenagers three weeks ago in Nanaimo.

Six constables are working full time on the investigation and others are helping from time to time, said Inspector G. A. Gerrie today.

Inspector Gerrie, head of the Victoria subdivision of the RCMP, said police still have some leads to check out. The investigation has ranged through all of Vancouver Island and over the lower mainland.

Diane Phipps and Leslie Dixon, both 19, were found shot dead. Their bodies were discovered six miles apart.

Police issued a description of a man they wanted to contact. So far, no leads have been found leading to the arrest of the killer, total $1,800.

NANAIMO — Residents in this area fear the loss of Horne Lake as a public recreation area for Vancouver Island as the result of the sale of lake-shore property by B.C. Cement Co. to a Vancouver firm.

New owner, Lake Forest Research and Development Co., has served eviction orders on some 40 summer cottage owners.

SOUTH AFRICANS WON'T LEAVE

UN's Conference Suspended

TUNIS (Reuters)—Ghanaian Agriculture Minister Krobo Edusei today threatened to walk out of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization conference here unless the South African delegation left.

Edusei asked the South Africans to "leave immediately... otherwise, our delegation will leave the conference and return to Accra."

The conference was suspended while delegates discussed the matter.

Delegates from a score of African countries and Britain and France are attending the 10-day regional conference which opened Thursday.

The South African delegation without temporarily Friday after 18 African countries approved a resolution calling for the expulsion of South Africa from the conference because of its apartheid (racial separation) policy.

But after consultations with their government, the South African members returned to the conference today.

All delegations except Britain, France and Rhodesia walked out of the conference hall when S. J. De Swart, South African secretary for agricultural economics and marketing, asked for the floor.

De Swart said the resolution adopted by the 18 African countries was a "flagrant violation of the FAO constitution" and added "we have decided that we cannot leave this conference."

Civil Service Asks End of Wage Freeze

OTTAWA (CP)—A delegation from the 76,000-member Civil Service Federation today asked Finance Minister Nowlan to end the civil service wage freeze.

Claude A. Edwards, federation president, said in a letter that "the state of the Canadian economy would now appear to be such as no longer to warrant the excuse given last June for delaying a decision on salary revisions."

He said only a statement that the increases would be paid retroactively would relieve a growing sense of frustration and injustice, among federation members.

NEAR-RIOT AT PRESTON

'Vigilantes' Fight
Teen-Age Violence

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—Vigilantes will again take action against teenage violence here if police fail to do anything, says a leader of about 40 men who clashed with a teenage gang Saturday night.

A riot almost developed when the men poured out of a Canadian Legion hall and challenged the youths in their downtown restaurant hangout.

Shoves and punches were exchanged before police intervened. About 200 people watched as the groups lined the main street on opposite sides, shouting insults at each other until 2:30 a.m. Cautious police patrolled a no-man's land between them.

Ernest Kells, a spokesman for the Canadian Legion group of war veterans, said Sunday: "We were only doing our duty as citizens... we'll do it again if action is not taken."

Mayor Allan Reuter warned the vigilante committee and the black-jacketed youths they would be charged with illegal assembly if they clashed again.

Both Mayor Reuter and Police Chief Gordon Bogle warned the vigilantes not to take the law into their own hands.

Mayor Reuter said trouble has been brewing in Preston for a long time.

The gangs have hanged Mayor Reuter in effigy and held a citizen at knife-point when he tried to help a 15-year-old girl who was being dragged into a car. They also ripped the fender off another youth's car when he tried to assist five girls who resisted a gang's advances. Police

Grant System Continued

The federal government will continue for another two years its program of grants for municipal sewer projects.

The program has been extended to March 31, 1965, Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton said.

Ottawa will lend up to two-thirds of the cost of approved projects.

If the projects are completed before 1965, Ottawa will make an outright grant of one-quarter of the amount loaned.

Saanich got a loan of $341,000 under this plan in 1961.

Mr. Chatterton said he hoped other Greater Victoria municipalities and improvement districts such as Sooke and Langford will take advantage of it.

IN VANCOUVER

No 'Pushing'
At Unique Mission

VANCOUVER (CP)—The interdenominational Central City Mission on Vancouver's Skid Road is unique in North America in its work for the hungry, jobless and friendless.

Established by city businessmen many years ago, it provides meals, clothes, a bed and advice but does not push religious views on the seekers.

Rev. Frederick W. Metzger, the mission's Presbyterian padre, hears the problems of up to 90 persons a day and deals with such diverse needs as a jacket for a man just out of jail to a vocational course for a teen-ager.

The mission has a week-long series of concerts, speakers and entertainment and various ministers and songsters at Sunday services.

It provides a "real possibility of a living encounter with Christ," says Mr. Metzger.

"We don't push religion down their throats but it is there if they want it and a real help."

The major portion of Padre Metzger's work is counselling men who come to him from all parts of Canada.

They are not alcoholics. "They are hungry, jobless, friendless," he says. "So some of them drink. We don't solve all their problems, we channel them. Sure, some of them can be phoned but I give them all a hearing. I'm getting to know a lot of them too."

There have been enough "saves" to justify what could be frustration.

Padre Metzger is Hungarian-born and was chosen by the then citizenship minister, John Pickersgill, to go to Europe to screen Hungarian families coming to British Columbia after the 1956 uprising.

Defiant Priest Quits

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. E. L. H. Taylor, an Anglican priest who defied his bishop by speaking out on the recent Mississippi integration crisis, has resigned and is on his way to England.

Mr. Taylor, who was born in the former Belgian Congo, sent a telegram to Governor Ross Barnett supporting the governor's stand on state's rights in education at the time Negro James Meredith was entering the University of Mississippi.

He later went on radio and television, despite orders from Rt. Rev. F. H. Wilkinson, Bishop of Toronto, not to do so.

Mr. Taylor, rector of both St. James Church at Caledon East and of Trinity Church at Campbell's Cross, resigned entirely of his own accord, Bishop Wilkinson said Friday.

"He told me that for a number of reasons he has decided to return to England," the bishop said. "His leaving was entirely a matter of his own choice and decision."

U.S. WINDS UP SERIES OF ATMOSPHERIC TESTS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has ended its controversial Pacific series of nuclear tests and called for an effective treaty to free the world from all nuclear testing.

President Kennedy announced that the low-yield shot fired over Johnston Island Sunday would mark the end of the series that began six months ago.

Kennedy said, however, that the U.S. would continue to conduct underground tests in Nevada. He said these would remain free from fallout.

UN Approves Compromise On A-Test Ban

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The political committee of the UN General Assembly today approved a Canadian-proposed compromise formula for halting all nuclear bomb tests by Jan. 1 even if a comprehensive treaty is not reached by that date.

BULGARIAN PM OUSTED BY PARTY

SOFIA (Reuters)—Bulgarian Prime Minister Anton Yugov has been expelled from the Communist party's central committee. It was announced here today.

Todor Zhivkov, first secretary of the Communist party, announced the central committee decided to expel him for "grave breaches of socialist legality and for his anti-party activities," the official news agency BTA said.

Polio 'Related' To Vaccine

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—A U.S. public health service team said today it has found evidence strongly indicating a relationship between a Nebraska polio outbreak and type III Sabin oral vaccine.

Dr. Paul Glezen said investigation showed that nine persons developed an illness compatible with acute polio between 7 and 22 days after taking type III Sabin vaccine.

After a thorough study of 18 cases, the Glezen team reported:

"Our evidence strongly indicates that the paralytic disease occurring in Nebraska is directly related to the feeding of the polio virus vaccine."

Liberal Austerity Motion Crucial Test for Tories

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Liberal group in the House today was to move a want of confidence amendment to the supply motion that will call for a halt to the surcharges and tight money regulations so that the "economy can get moving again."

This attack on the Conservative government's austerity program will put the Social Credit group in the Commons squarely on the spot. The Social Crediters have said they were opposed to the austerity measures, especially tight money, and would vote against it.

Consequently the Liberal non-confidence motion will put the Tories in the embarrassing position of having to vote

Polaris Blows Up

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A navy attempt to fire its highly advanced Polaris "A-3" missile on a long test flight failed today when the rocket exploded 30 seconds after it roared into the sky.

PEACE PRIZE LEFT ON SHELF

OSLO (AP)—The Nobel committee of the Norwegian Storting (parliament) today announced it had decided not to award the Nobel Peace Prize for 1962.

The prize money has been reserved for next year, the brief announcement said.

No reason was given for the committee's decision, but in the past the prize has not been awarded in times of great crisis.

Informed sources said the committee regarded the world situation as "too labile"—that is too unstable—to make any award this year.

U.S. Awaits Removal Of Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities reported today they have no evidence yet that the Russians are packing up the atomic-capable jet bombers they sent to Cuba.

This was said to be a matter of concern to President Kennedy, who wants removal of the IL-28 bombers as well as the Russian missiles in Cuba.

U.S. surveillance has shown that the missile dismantling promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev is well along, officials said. But American intelligence has not found repacking of untested IL-28s to be underway, they said.

The reports on the bombers were disclosed amid these other developments in the Cuban situation:

1. U.S. government sources have reported Kennedy feels surveillance of Cuba will have to continue long after the current crisis is settled.

'CORDIAL' TALKS

2. Talks between Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier, and Cuban government officials continued in Havana today in an atmosphere described as cordial. Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos and armed forces minister Raul Castro participated.

3. UN Acting Secretary-General Thant was given a fill-in on the Mikoyan-Cuban talks by Vasily V. Kuznetsov, a Soviet deputy foreign minister. He called on Thant at the UN in New York to discuss the Cuban situation.

NEEDS PROOF

Informed sources also said the president is determined to verify the withdrawal of the weapons by international inspection teams, and believes nothing less will be satisfactory.

The U.S. position on withdrawal of the Soviet missiles and bombers, verified by international inspection, was said to have been outlined by John J. McCloy to Mikoyan in New York last Thursday.

While Mikoyan announced he will remain to continue his talks with Castro, his son flew to Moscow for the funeral of Mrs. Mikoyan.

Ashkenazy, Lazaryevna Mikoyan, 64, died Saturday night in Moscow after a long illness.

Cuba Agrees To Proposal

GENEVA (Reuters)—The international committee of the Red Cross today announced that the Cuban government has agreed to the committee inspecting ships bound for Cuba.

The committee's announcement said inspections would be carried out for one month by inspectors appointed by the Red Cross.

It said the committee learned of Cuba's agreement through the United Nations.

President Kennedy said last week that the Soviet proposal to use the Red Cross as a means of ending the blockade was acceptable to the U.S.

The Red Cross announcement said the Red Cross could not accept direct responsibility for the operation, which would remain the responsibility of the United Nations and the countries concerned.

Its contribution would consist principally in the recruitment of personnel to inspect ships on the high seas.

It said 30 inspectors would be involved in the task.

The committee said it had asked former President Paul Ruegger to go to New York for talks with the UN Acting Secretary-General U Thant and representatives of the countries concerned.

The announcement said the final decision of the committee would depend on the result of Ruegger's mission.

It would be the first "political" mission the committee has ever undertaken.

Traditionally, the committee is careful to preserve its neutrality and independence, insisting that it can be responsible to no other body.

CHOOSE SWISS

A committee spokesman said before the announcement that if the committee agreed to undertake the inspection, it probably would recruit officers from the Swiss army to act as inspectors.

The committee's normal duties involve purely humanitarian missions such as the care of prisoners of war and prisoner exchanges.

Ruegger, 65, a noted jurist and former Swiss diplomat, was president of the 20-man international committee from 1948 to 1955. After this term as president he directed the committee's activities in prisoner-of-war work.

In 1948 he personally supervised Red Cross activities during the war in Palestine.

Mid-East War Feared In Crisis Over Yemen

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—A deepening crisis over Yemen threatened today to touch off a Middle East conflict pitting conservative monarchies against President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

On one side are the royal strongholds of Saudi Arabia and Jordan and on the other the Yemeni revolutionary regime backed by the U.A.R.

The crisis touched off by the overthrow of Yemen's ancient throne in September reached a new high Sunday with threats by the rebel regime to invade Saudi Arabia's main southern port of Qizan and the interior city of Najran.

Saudi Arabia and Jordan, both monarchies, are supporting attempts by the deposed Yemeni king, Imam Muhammad Al-Badr, to regain his throne. The revolutionary regime is backed by the United Arab Republic, which has sent planes and tanks and perhaps 1,000 soldiers into the tiny Red Sea country.

Yemeni revolutionary President Abdullah Sallal voiced the invasion threat against Saudi Arabia as that country's radio claimed royalist warriors now control Yemen's entire northwest.

Communists purporting to come from Al-Badr's headquarters claimed hundreds of rebels, including many U.A.R. troops, had been killed in the fighting.

'What I Did Was the Only Possible Solution'

CP from AP-Reuters

LIEGE, Belgium—A 24-year-old woman today sobbed as she told a jury how she felt when she was first shown her daughter Carinne, born without arms and with deformed feet.

"What I did was the only possible solution," said Suzanne Vandepuit on the opening day of her trial for murder. "I felt the child could not be happy as it was."

son in her seven-day-old baby's bottle after a conference with other members of her family. She took the tranquillizer drug thalidomide during pregnancy.

The family conference was held after two doctors and a Roman Catholic nun refused her request to kill the child, she said.

The young mother broke down several times during questioning. Sobbing, she said: "I thought

hand been shown the baby but could find nothing else to do."

"DO IT YOURSELF"

She said her family doctor, Jacques Casters, told her: "I myself can do nothing. Do it yourself."

Dr. Casters gave her a prescription for the poison and the baby's grandmother bought the barbiturate, according to the charges.

The baby's mother, told the court: "If only my baby had also been mentally abnormal, it would have been different. She would not have realized what her fate was. But she had a normal brain. She would have known I would have had remorse all my life. There was nothing else I could have done."

"Yes, I tried to think of other solutions. Day and night I was thinking about it. But what other solution?"

Fernande Yerna, the baby's grandmother, said that soon after the birth and when Suzanne did not yet know about the baby's malformation, her daughter asked her to make sure the clinic had not forgotten to put an identity bracelet on the baby's arm. She quoted her daughter as saying: "I do not want my baby to be exchanged for another."

A handkerchief to her face, Mrs. Yerna said: "It was unbearable, Mr. President. It was terrible."

The court is sitting with a jury of 12—all men.

cially enlarged for the occasion by the removal of partitions, more than 100 reporters and public-most of them standing—watched the accused walk into the prisoner's box under the glare of floodlights.

For the first time in Belgian history television and film cameras were in the courtroom.

Mrs. Vandepuit risks the death sentence—symbolic in Belgium, since it is always commuted to life imprisonment except for treason—if she is found guilty. Extenuating circumstances can reduce the sentence to a minimum three years imprisonment.

Mrs. Yerna is charged with approaching Casters to obtain the means of killing Carinne, the doctor with providing the drug which killed the baby and the two others with condoning the killing of the child.

Casters had prescribed the thalidomide tranquillizer for Mrs. Vandepuit.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were irregularly easier in quiet trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Flax prices were down although the market staged occasional rallies from earlier low levels. Export interests and commercial demand were quiet, but some overseas inquiry was in evidence.

Among coarse grains, barley uncovered modest processing demand while oats trading was quiet and generally along domestic lines.

The rye market recorded narrow losses in the absence of expected West German demand for Canadian rye.

IN OCTOBER

Reserves Show Good Recovery

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—An encouraging rise in Canada's foreign exchange reserves during October has pushed the government closer to a decision on when to dismantle the austerity measures—import surcharges in particular—thrown up in the June financial emergency.

An increase of $159,300,000 in the reserves in October, despite a net outflow of $20,000,000 from special transactions, was reported Friday by Finance Minister Nowlan.

This brought the reserves to $2,613,900,000 at month-end. Even discounting $475,000,000 still owing from the short-term borrowing done in the June emergency, the reserves were higher than the previous peak of $2,110,600,000 a year ago.

This is in contrast to the low point of some $1,100,000,000 June 24 when the government announced its emergency program to stop and reverse a hemorrhage from the exchange reserves fund.

FEELS 'PRESSURE' Already the government has felt pressure from the United States government to set a firm cut-off date for ending the import surcharges levied on some $3,900,000,000 of import trade.

The government, which lifted surcharges on about one-twelfth of the total in mid-October, hasn't gone beyond the promise that they'll all be ended as soon as possible.

This issue is expected to arise in Geneva at the current meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in deciding whether to grant Canada a waiver from GATT rules on its surcharges.

It's known that the government hopes to maintain some freedom in timing the surcharge removal in the light of circumstances as they develop.

Officials indicate that the reserves face some heavy pressures in the months ahead, including year-end payments of interest and dividends to foreign investors and the seasonal drop in export earnings resulting from the closing of navigation on the Great Lakes.

MUST MAINTAIN One problem is that of maintaining the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar within one per cent above or below the pegged rate of 92.5 cents.

For the last month the dollar has been nudging the 93-cent level. But if it should fall, the government would have to sell U.S. dollars from the exchange fund to prevent it dropping too far.

Some weeks ago Prime Minister Diefenbaker said that because of this factor and the growing volume of trade and investment, the exchange reserves must be increased to a level higher than in the last decade.

This level has been around $1,900,000,000, and informants say the government's thinking is that a workable level should be around $2,250,000,000.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Handy man with a shovel, believe it or not, is Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes.

While gardeners were busy removing some trees from the grounds at Government House last week, Mr. Pearkes appeared on the scene with a large scap-shaped shovel and proceeded to help them fill in the holes.

"His Honor is very fond of gardening," said one of the staff.

Very uncommercial. The return of Duke Ellington to the Memorial Arena tonight reminds me of an earlier performance he gave at the old Beacon Theatre in Vancouver.

The Beacon kindly asked me to do an impromptu radio interview with the Duke. It was great fun, but alas the interview got so cluttered up with music, I clean forgot to mention the theatre—until near the end of the broadcast when I happened to catch sight of the Beacon's Irish publicity manager through the studio window.

He looked like an enraged orang-outang and seemed to be tearing great lumps out of his hair. While the big eyes blazed into mine, the lips writhed into the silent words: "MEN-TION THE BEACON—BLAST YOU!"

Last Saturday we asked for the address of Alfred Tennyson Forbes (not Ford), the barefoot juggler who used to perform outside the Medical Arts Building in Pandora. Latest advice is that Alfred and his family have left Victoria and are now on board a ship bound for New Zealand.

Many children have a hidden medical problem—an allergy or malady which will not inconvenience them much if precautions are taken.

Canadian Medic-Alert Foundation, a non-profit organization, urges every parent who has a child with such a problem to contact the foundation at 176 St. George Street, Toronto, and obtain an identification bracelet or tag which clearly states the allergy, condition or specific health problem.

Some 85,000 men, women and children wear the Medic-Alert tag in Canada and the United States and the foundation suggests Victorians avail themselves of this protection and security.

Victoria's restaurants are generally clean and immaculate, "both front and back," says Ernest Martin, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, visiting here over the weekend.

"My wife and I ate in a number of restaurants and were equally impressed by the courteous and efficient service."

There was a slightly flustered telephone operator at the Empress Hotel the other day when violin-piano duo Thomas Rolston and Isobel Moore were staying at the hotel.

A caller, when told that no one named Isobel Moore was staying at the hotel, said, "Oh, try for Mrs. Rolston. She is probably registered under that name."

There was an awkward pause at both ends of the line over the implications of what had been said. But it was soon settled.

Pianist Isobel Moore is actually Mrs. Rolston. But professionally she uses her own name and not her husband's. They are playing with Victoria Symphony at the Royal Theatre tonight.

Victoria lawyer Hugh Larratt Henderson was recently honored by the Trinity College School Association of Port Hope, Ont.

He was elected to represent the association on the governing body of the school. The association has more than 4,500 members and branches in 14 major cities of Canada, including Victoria and Vancouver.

Mr. Henderson has been president of the Victoria branch for a number of years.

More than 30,000 people have visited 65-year-old Fort Rodd Hill since it became an historic national park last June 9.

Visitors from the United States seem particularly interested in the history of the fort, says William Walker, 923 Esquimalt Road, who is senior guard of the property. The 44-acre site is being developed by the historic sites division of the federal department of northern affairs. It has underground passages similar to 19th century forts in India and Africa.

Band Sergeant E. A. Stannard, an instructor at Royal Canadian Naval School of Music, Esquimalt, leased recently that his son, Band Staff Sergeant Derek Stannard, has won high honors overseas.

He has been nominated the best all-round student of the 1962 class in the student bandmasters' course at the Royal Military School of Music, Kneller Hall, England.

'Canada Irritates Friends'

HALIFAX (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester Pearson says the Diefenbaker administration has "a positive genius for irritating our two greatest friends and our two greatest customers"—the United States and Britain.

"They seem to get along all right, though, with Cuba and Communist China," Canada was even selling wheat to the Chinese Communists who were attacking India, a Commonwealth country.

Mr. Pearson made his comments Saturday in a keynote speech at a Nova Scotia Liberal convention here.

He said the U.S. and Britain take 80 per cent of Canada's exports. Yet the Progressive Conservative government at Ottawa had greeted Britain's proposed entry in the European Common Market with "whining and obstruction." It had adopted until recently a similar attitude toward President Kennedy's freer trade policies.

Canada, he said, has had a weak government for the last five years, a government now hanging onto office with votes of a Social Credit party that had condemned its policies before the June 18 election.

A Liberal government would have accepted the changing world trade situation at the outset and moved to take advantage of it. "Protecting our interests does not require a diplomacy that irritates our best friends."

Mr. Pearson endorsed United States blockade action in the Cuban crisis. "I think it was the right course to take. I wish it could have been taken some other way but I think we have a duty to support the United States in this course."

Earl W. Urquhart, 41, a Cape Breton country lawyer, was elected leader of the provincial party. He won by the close margin of 11 votes over Gordon S. Cowan, 51, a Halifax corporation lawyer.

nese will try to continue to advance. Instead of retreating, since the Communist offensive began 16 days ago the Chinese have driven forward at 13 points in the disputed border areas.

Persons travelling on roads northwest of New Delhi reported Indian troops leaving that area, which faces West Pakistan. The troops were heading for Assam state, in north-west India.

U.S. weapons were being rushed toward Assam. U.S. Air Force planes were arriving in Calcutta at the rate of one every three hours to deliver 100 tons of infantry arms and mortars daily. British weapons also are being sent to India and Canadian arms have been promised. The terms on which the three countries responded to Indian requests remain to be settled.

Chou En-lai does not like Western help to India. "It is regrettable that India is buying great quantities of weapons from the United States, Britain and Western countries," he said in Peking.

Young Tory Raps Green Over Cuba

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto Young Progressive Conservative conference Saturday rejected a demand for the resignation of External Affairs Minister Gordon Ross, a member of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative executive, said he thought Mr. Green's resignation was "absolutely essential for the survival of the Conservative party—at least in Ontario."

Mr. Ross said he based his demand on the government's "disturbing lack of policy" on the Cuban crisis.

Four Survive Total Wreck

A Sidney man and his three passengers escaped with minor cuts and bruises when a car went off the Central Saanich Road, hitting a power pole and a tree, at midnight Saturday.

The vehicle was a total loss. Ronald Shillito, 10181 Third Street, Sidney, was driving the 1963 model sedan. The road is straight at this point, police said.

He and his passengers were taken to Rest Haven Hospital for minor treatment and released.

Jews Burned at Stake By Nazi S. S. Killers

COBLENZ (Reuters)—A West German accused with 13 other former Nazi S.S. men of 30,356 wartime murders told a court here today Jewish partisans in Russia were burned alive after they threw a bomb at an S.S. headquarters.

Georg Heuser, 49-year-old former head of the Rhineland-Palatinate criminal investigation department, said his S.S. chief at Minsk ordered the burning and told all his staff to attend.

Heuser arrived when the fire had died to glowing embers, but the men—there were three or four, he said—were still dying.

BODIES OF 3 CHILDREN FOUND IN BURNED TREE

STURGIS, Sask. (CP)—Three children were burned to death Saturday when fire broke out in a tree house where they were playing near their farm home. Their father frantically chopped down the tree when he was unable to reach the trapped children, but they were dead when the tree fell.

The three youngsters, children of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Carlson, were burned to death while playing in the tree house with a lantern on the family farm near this eastern Saskatchewan community Saturday.

The father was attempting to rescue the children after seven-year-old Wade Carlson, apparently blown out of the tree house by an explosion crawled 200 yards to the farmhouse to summon his father.

Danny Carlson, 11, Patricia Carlson, 9, and Jackie, 8, died in the blaze.

Wade suffered severe burns to his head and hands and his condition is critical. Wade, in hospital at Preeceville, Sask., had begun to come out of a coma.

The Carlson farm is three miles south of Sturgis, 140 miles northeast of Regina.

Adenauer Loses Two Top Officials

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer's coalition government today survived the crisis of Der Spiegel affair, but at the cost of two of his top officials.

A government announcement said the coalition of Adenauer's Christian Democrats and their minority partners, the Free Democrats, will continue, but two officials will be dropped—one from the justice and one from the defence ministry.

Meanwhile, a federal court ruled that Rudolf Augstein, publisher of the weekly magazine Der Spiegel (The Mirror) which is charged with disclosing defence secrets, will remain under arrest because there is danger he might try to conceal evidence.

The government announcement said Justice Minister Wolfgang Stammberger, who had offered his resignation over the affair, now will stay in office.

But it said "there also was agreement that State Secretary (Walter) Strauss shall be relieved of his duties as secretary of state at the federal justice ministry." It added State Secretary Volkmar Hopf of the defence ministry has applied for "leave until further notice."

Merchants Proposed On New Parking Body

A parking commission consisting entirely of downtown property owners will be recommended as the agency for operating the two civic parking garages, Ald. Michael Griffin said over the weekend.

He said downtown ratepayers should control the operation because they are guarantors for the $1,115,000 money bylaw.

Ald. Griffin said the existing special parking committee will be disbanded after it completes all arrangements for construction of the garages.

The first garage, accommodating 400 cars, on View Street, is expected to open towards the end of this month. The committee still is seeking a site for the second garage.

The proposed operational committee would assume control over such things as rates and hours of operation and a system of nearby stores validating parking tickets.

Police Query Park Workmen

Workmen at Layritz Park are being questioned by Saanich police who want to find the persons who left blasting caps in the park.

Children playing in the park Saturday found the caps. They also discovered a full stick of dynamite and two half-sticks above ground. Wires leading to at least 12 more sticks below ground were found.

HIT WITH ROCK

Donny Shepherd, 1280 Glyn, pounded one of the blasting caps with a rock. An expert said later that if he had pounded it closer to the base he would certainly have exploded the cap.

Seven-year-old Rusty Lockhart, who was with Donny, took a handful of wire home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lockhart, 1275 Glyn.

His father recognized it as the type used in blasting. He went to the park, found the explosives and the caps and immediately contacted police.

Blasting at a rock pile in the park has been going on for some days.

It is unlikely charges will be laid against the persons who left the caps lying around. But police want to find out why the caps were left in the open.

U.K. A-SUB RUNS TEST

BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England (AP) — Britain's first nuclear submarine, the Dreadnought, sailed under its own power for the first time Sunday. Using its auxiliary electric motor, the 266-foot vessel moved slowly out of its floating dock to an area a mile away where harbor trials will be completed. Sea trials are to start in two weeks. The sub was launched in 1960.

MacPowell, IWA Fight Delayed Until Nov. 20

First round in a legal battle between MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. and the IWA was postponed in police court at Port Alberni today until Nov. 20.

The dispute arose over a work stoppage in August that caused the layoff of almost 500 men employed at the Somass Division of the giant lumber company.

The union has been charged by the company with striking illegally and the union claiming an illegal lockout.

Robert E. Smart, 2936 Quadra, was fined $50 in city police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace early Sunday morning in a downtown cafe. He was arrested after police were called to the Melrose Cafe, 622 Yates, where several youths were alleged to have refused to pay for a meal.

During questioning, the accused called the Victoria police "gestapo," court was told.

N.Y. MINISTER UNIMPRESSED WITH PHILOSOPHER

Lord Russell Has 'Lot to Learn'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

British philosopher Lord Bertrand Russell has "an awful lot to learn about life," Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell of New York told a large congregation in First United Church Sunday night.

Dr. Bonnell said Lord Russell had made the "very irresponsible" statement that people "should not exercise overmuch self-control, because it can become a suit of armor that weighs you down."

SORDID CASE

"Lord Russell may be a great philosopher but he has messed up his own life pretty badly," Dr. Bonnell declared. "His last divorce was described by a British judge as one of the most sordid cases he had ever heard."

Concluding a week-long preaching mission at First United, Dr. Bonnell said Lord Russell was far from being a good example to the present generation.

"This generation is deplorably lacking in self-control—it is ruled by impulse and design rather than by decent moral standards of living."

"Self-control doesn't mean a diminution of life—it heightens life and gives it meaning and purpose. The most bored and surfeited people in the world today are those who do just as they like.

"Many of them are chain smokers and chain drinkers, and that means living in chains."

As an example of self-control, Dr. Bonnell mentioned U.S. astronaut John Glenn, who orbited the earth in a space rocket. He had to exercise "complete self-mastery" in "carrying out his perilous assignment."

"Had he deviated from his course by one degree he might have been reduced to a heap of ashes."

Dr. Bonnell said the first step towards self-mastery is

"the ability to know your self and your true motivations."

"Psycho-analysis has helped many people, but in some cases it has proved so devastating in its revelations that the subjects couldn't take it. They couldn't face up to their true selves."

Bennett to Seek Peace Financing

Visit to New York Set for Mid-Month

Premier Bennett announced today he is going to New York again this month to lay the groundwork for Peace River power financing.

He will leave Nov. 17 or 18 and spend three or four days there.

Deputy Finance Minister G. S. Bryson will go with him.

Mr. Bennett said the first reason for the trip is to complete a long-term loan for one of B.C.'s crown agencies—B.C. Hydro, the PGE Railway or the Toll Authority. The deal was arranged on his last New York trip in October.

He did not disclose which agency or how much the loan will be.

The premier said this time he will also discuss financing the Peace River project.

$400 MILLION

First stage-up to power production from the main dam in 1968—will cost about $400,000,000.

"I will be laying the groundwork for it," said Mr. Bennett. "This doesn't mean we will raise the money there—we will make sure we get the right interest rate."

However, he will sound out U.S. financiers on offers.

WHAT RATE?

Mr. Bennett said he has "no doubt at all" that B.C. can get the money for the Peace; the only questions in his mind are where, when and at what interest rate.

He said he will not discuss Columbia River power financing in New York "because the Columbia is not finalized."

The project is stalled pending a deal with the Americans for sale of the downstream benefits

These negotiations are in the hands of B.C. Hydro "technical experts" and they have been postponed until after Tuesday's U.S. congressional elections.

"There will be meetings in due course," said the premier. He said he will also ask investors in New York about other B.C. prospects.

RISK CAPITAL

"We are inducing capital to come into the province—risk capital," he said.

Mr. Bennett said he is leaving Tuesday to take his wife for a holiday at Palm Springs, Calif.

The trip is because doctors suggested Mrs. Bennett go to a warmer climate for a while. She was 13 weeks in hospital this summer after a back operation.

Mr. Bennett said he will return alone to B.C. next week to make preparations for the next session of the legislature and his New York trip.

NO ELECTION DATE

He did not—as expected—announce the date of the Point Grey by-election.

He said the announcement would come from the cabinet while he is away.

The by-election is expected in December to fill the vacancy in the legislature caused by the death last August of Mrs. Buda Brown, minister without portfolio.

ATTRACTIVE BLONDE

Linda Anne Gibson, a fifth-year nursing student, is the University of British Columbia Homecoming Queen. The 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Gibson, Ripon Road, the Uplands, was crowned at Saturday night's homecoming dance.

Fleeing Thief Leaves Shoe as Clue

City detectives are looking for a "Cinderella" to fit a shoe left at the scene of a breaking and entering early Sunday morning.

An unknown thief was discovered in the act of stealing from the Maycock Barber Shop in the building of MacMillan's Auto Court at 617 Gorge about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

In his haste to elude the manager, R. P. MacMillan and Allen Curtis, who was in the motel office at the time, he dropped a shoe.

Mr. Curtis chased him, but the culprit escaped.

The thief made off with a $15 radio, two electric shavers worth $70, combs, hair dressing and other small articles.

During the pandemonium surrounding the thief's escape, the glass door to the shop was shattered.

Driver 'Fair' After Crash Into Power Pole

Driver of a car which went out of control and crashed into a power pole on Port Bay Road Saturday night is in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

Frank Wilcox, 37, of 1439 Vining, was admitted with a fractured nose and severe chest injuries.

It is believed he was driving south on Port Bay about 11:10 p.m. when he failed to round a turn at Gonzales Avenue. His car smashed into a pole just south of the intersection. The car was heavily damaged.

Inquest Set Wednesday

In Boys' Deaths

Coroner's inquest into the traffic deaths of two teen-aged boys Saturday will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at McCall's funeral home.

Ian Bruce Cameron, 18, and John Raymond Beech, 17, died after the car in which they were riding crashed into a fence, two posts and a steel railway stanchion at Colville and Admirals level crossing.

Their 17-year-old companion Charles Ashe escaped serious injury.

A double funeral service for the boyhood friends will be held at McCall's chapel at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, followed by cremation for Cameron and burial at Royal Oak for Beech.

Cleric Leaves Soon On Toronto Posting

Rev. A. I. Higgins, minister at First United Church for the past seven years, is leaving here next week to become minister of an old-established United Church in Toronto.

He declined to give the name of the church today, but said he was looking forward to the new pastorate.

"In some ways I shall be sorry to leave Victoria but I know I am taking the right step. For one thing, the new living will be nearer my family in Nova Scotia."

RECEPTION SUNDAY

Rumors of Mr. Higgins' departure from First United have been current for some time. They were not confirmed until the church announced a "farewell reception" for him in the Fellowship Hall next Sunday evening.

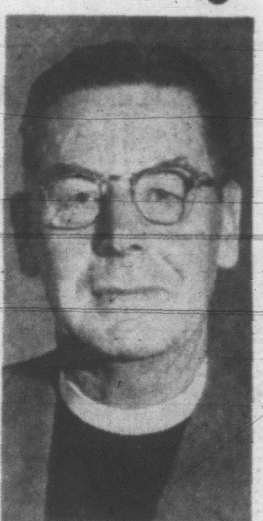

"For special reasons I do not wish to give the name of my new church," he said.

Born at Truro, N.S., Mr. Higgins was known during the Second World War as "the flying padre." He succeeded Rev. Mair Waters as minister of First United in October 1955.

WIDELY TRAVELLED

His travels as a chaplain with the RCAF took him to Africa, Egypt, Iraq, India and Ceylon, and he used the opportunity to study mission work in those countries.

Educated at Dalhousie University and Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, Mr. Higgins served pastorates at Middleton and Wesley Memorial, Moncton, N.B., and was minister of MacKay United Church, Ottawa, from 1946 to 1955.

REV. A. I. HIGGINS

... farewell Sunday

Mrs. Higgins was formerly Dorothy Welch, whose father was well known in shipping circles. She was born in Nova Scotia and attended Acadia College.

Their Victoria residence is at 3010 Westdowne Road.

MONTE ROBERTS

As I was saying Friday, this is National Cat Week, and I may as well try to capitalize on it to the extent of another column.

A chore made easy for me by Florence (friend of all the animals) Barr, who sends along a copy of The Cat, the official publication of the Cat's Protection League, published at Prestbury Lodge, 29 Church Street, Slough, Bucks.

Ever ready to be of assistance when a feline needs a friend, this excellent publication once again seeks homes for an assortment charmingly described by placement counsellor Mrs. de Clifford as follows:

1. Expert sardine taster seeks a wider field. Would undertake pilchards and tinned salmon if required.

2. Remarkable opportunity. Go-ahead dairy farmer can obtain services of a true connoisseur of cream.

3. Handsome young Manxman seeks society where tails are not generally worn, even on formal occasions.

4. Chef's assistant would like greater responsibility. Can cope with up to eight or ten servings a day.

5. Overseer would like new post. Will superintend all activities in home and garden. Loads of executive ability, used to making decisions and having orders obeyed.

6. Fishmonger's aid, at present unengaged. Hard worker, speedy at cleaning up.

7. Small tabby cat wants employment as scare-crow—or would act equally well as scare-sparrow. Will not tackle pigeons.

8. Anxious mother wishes to present fair young daughters—will London hostesses please help with debuts? (Two tabby and one all black.)

9. Owner of very loud purr, would like to live with someone hard of hearing.

10. Small stout party wants home with room for regular exercise.

11. Black gentleman seeks suitable setting. Likes white paintwork for contrast.

12. White lady (with small patches) would fit prettily into any modern decor.

The talented and witty Mrs. de Clifford (her address is 12 The Close, New Malden, Surrey) makes all her clients sound to attractive it is a pity they are so far away from Victoria.

But never fear.

If you'd like the joy of pampering a pet kitten or picking up the tab for a tabby, just telephone the Cat's Protection League, Victoria Branch, or the SPCA (they're both in the book.)

You'll find you have lots from which to choose—it is an unfortunate fact that the supply perpetually exceeds the demand.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

An elderly woman pedestrian was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday afternoon, after she was in collision with a car at the intersection of Cook and Oxford Streets.

Police action is pending.

Driver of a car which was heavily damaged by crashing into a tree at Cadboro Bay and Cedar Hill Cross Road, early Sunday escaped serious injury.

Mervyn Johnson, 24, 686 Ker, was admitted to Jubilee Hospital where he was taken by Oak Bay police. He was treated for shock and released today.

His car skidded into the east-boulevard on Cadboro Bay at the Cedar Hill Cross Road intersection, hitting a tree, about 5:30 a.m.

Courtenay and Cumberland telephone exchanges were successfully converted to dial operation at 11:01 p.m. Saturday, the B.C. Telephone Company reported today.

New buildings in Cumberland and Comox—a new addition to the Courtenay building—house the new automatic equipment, which serves about 5,300 telephones.

Also converted to automatic service was the Hornby-Danman Islands exchange.

Approximate cost of the conversion was $140,000.

Victoria Lions Club is hoping city motorists will remember the family car at Christmas by giving it a pair of seat belts. The club has sold and installed about 650 belts in the past two months and plan another big drive around the Yuletide season.

As sales have been lagging lately, the Lions do not find it necessary to install belts every weekend at Mooney's Body Shop on View Street, but will wait until sales warrant another installation session.

"An Accent on Education," the second lecture of a series presented by the Gordon Head P.T.A. is scheduled Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school. Vice-Principal W. M. Harris will hold a demonstration lesson in Social Studies.

Winners of the weekly tournament conducted by the Victoria Unit of the American Contract Bridge League were: 1. Gordon-Rodger and George Morgan; 2. Gwen Brown and Eric Goodwin; 3. Otto Leesment and Bud Waddington; tie for 4th, Ethel Cleworth and Les Stewart and Laura Tingley and Molly Collins.

Cuba Agrees To Inspection

GENEVA (Reuters) — The international committee of the Red Cross today announced that the Cuban government has agreed to the committee inspecting ships bound for Cuba.

The committee's announcement said inspections would be carried out for one month by inspectors appointed by the Red Cross.

It said the committee learned of Cuba's agreement through the United Nations.

President Kennedy said last week that the Soviet proposal to use the Red Cross as a means of ending the blockade was acceptable to the U.S.

The Red Cross announcement said the Red Cross could not accept direct responsibility for the operation, which would remain the responsibility of the United Nations and the countries concerned.

Its contribution would consist principally in the recruitment

U.S. Awaits Removal Of Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities reported today they have no evidence yet that the Russians are packing up the atomic-capable jet bombers they sent to Cuba.

This was said to be a matter of concern to President Kennedy, who wants removal of the IL-28 bombers as well as the Russian missiles in Cuba.

U.S. surveillance has shown that the missile dismantling promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev is well along, officials said. But American intelligence has not found repacking of uncrated IL-28s to be under way, they said.

The reports on the bombers were disclosed amid these other developments in the Cuban situation:

1. U.S. government sources have reported Kennedy feels surveillance of Cuba will have to continue long after the current crisis is settled.

CORDIAL TALKS

2. Talks between Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier, and Cuban government officials continued in Havana today in an atmosphere described as cordial. Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos and armed forces minister Raul Castro participated.

3. UN Acting Secretary-General Thant was given a fill-in on the Mikoyan-Cuban talks by Vasily V. Kuznetsov, a Soviet deputy foreign minister. He called on Thant at the UN in New York to discuss the Cuban situation.

Informed sources also said the president is determined to verify the withdrawal of the weapons by international inspection teams, and believes nothing less will be satisfactory.

The U.S. position on withdrawal of the Soviet missiles and bombers, verified by international inspection, was said to have been outlined by John J. McCloy to Mikoyan in New York last Thursday.

While Mikoyan announced he will remain to continue his talks with Castro, his son flew to Moscow for the funeral of Mrs. Mikoyan.

Akhkhen Lazaryevna Mikoyan, 64, died Saturday night in Moscow after a long illness.

A-Test Ban Compromise Wins Approval of UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The political committee of the UN General Assembly today approved a Canadian-proposed compromise formula for halting all nuclear bomb tests by Jan. 1 even if a comprehensive treaty is not reached by that date.

In a complicated series of votes, the committee:

1. Passed without a dissenting vote a resolution sponsored by 37 non-nuclear powers urging a complete halt on tests by Jan. 1. The tally was 81 to 0 with 25 abstentions. The abstainers including all nuclear powers. This resolution contained amendments embodying the Canadian idea.

2. Passed by a vote of 50 to 12 with 42 abstentions an Anglo-American resolution urging a comprehensive treaty banning tests in the atmosphere, outer space, in the oceans and underground—under effective international controls.

The vote on the 37-power resolution was a whole was held after the committee approved on separate ballots revised Canadian amendments which had become the centre of debate since they were first submitted last Wednesday.

Socreds Again Duck Challenge

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson moved a non-confidence motion today in the Commons which declares that the government's "emergency austerity program of tariff surcharges and tight money... should be stopped at once."

Direct Challenge Issued

He issued a direct challenge to the Social Credit party, which has voted to keep the minority Conservative government in power on four previous confidence tests, to vote with the Liberals in opposition to "tight money conditions." The motion, which would defeat the government if carried, is to be voted on Tuesday night.

However, the chances of a defeat faded when Social Credit Leader Thompson indicated that his 30-member group considers the task of Parliament must be to bring in constructive measures to meet economic difficulties and not precipitate an immediate election through voting non-confidence in the government.

Cannot Afford Election

If the economy was in as serious a position as Mr. Pearson claimed, "we cannot stand to have an election at this time," he said.

Thompson moved an amendment to the Liberal non-confidence motion urging that the government's austerity program be replaced with a policy of debt-free money, constructive proposals for a balanced domestic economy and balanced international trade.

Embarrassing Spot For Social Crediters

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The new Liberal non-confidence attack on the Conservative government's austerity program will put the Social Credit group in the Commons squarely on the spot. The Social Crediters have said they were opposed to the austerity measures, especially tight money, and would vote against it.

Consequently the Liberal non-confidence motion will put the Socreds in the embarrassing position of having to vote for the austerity program against the Liberal amendment or against the tight money provisions of the program and with the Liberals.

If they vote with the Liberals, and the New Democratic Party, group also votes with the Liberals, it could mean the defeat of the Diefenbaker government.

There could be also a non-confidence amendment from the Social Crediters or the New Democratic Party, but not from both groups. If the Social Credit party moves a non-confidence amendment then the New Democrats will be out of luck.

This supply motion will provide the Liberals with an opportunity to put the government to a test on its austerity program. New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas said in an interview just before taking his seat in parliament last Friday that the austerity program had proved to be an important issue in the Burnaby-Coquitlam byelection.

Mr. Douglas said the Canadian electorate was unhappy over the austerity program after hearing from Conservative campaign speakers during electioneering in May and June that the economy was in excellent shape. They had been sadly let down and consequently the popularity of the Conservative government has suffered a setback since the austerity program was announced, he declared.

Major Indian Outpost Falls

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian government announced today the loss of one of its most important military positions on the battlelines with the Chinese Communists.

Their position at Daulat Beg Oldi, at the northern end of the line in Ladakh, was evacuated a few days ago, a defence ministry spokesman said. Ladakh is at the western end of the Himalayan border.

The outpost at Daulat Beg Oldi was the centre of a series of smaller posts, all of which fell earlier.

The Chinese have now crossed what they claim to be their border with India at one or two places and have driven beyond the disputed territory.

New Delhi officials think there are no chances now of a negotiated peace with the Chinese.

Prime Minister Nehru has demanded the Chinese withdraw to positions before their incursions into Northeast India began on Sept. 8 and has rejected proposals of a cease-fire and peace talks until they do.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai says his country will not retreat.

Reuters news agency said Indian press reports from Indian headquarters for the Northeast Frontier stated Indian forces had recaptured three villages from Chinese troops near Towang. The reports quoted "official but reliable information," the news agency said.

The reports said the Chinese had "committed many atrocities and caused untold miseries to the local population."

The Indian army is preparing for the possibility that the Chinese will not retreat.

MOTHER ON TRIAL ADMITS KILLING DRUG-DEFORMED BABY

'What I Did Was the Only Possible Solution'

CP from AP-Reuters

LIEGE, Belgium — A 24-year-old mother accused of poisoning her baby today sobbed as she told a jury how she felt when she was first shown her daughter Carinne, born without arms and with deformed feet.

"What I did was the only possible solution," said Suzanne Vandepuit on the opening day of her trial for murder. "I felt the child could not be happy as it was."

She is accused of putting poison in her seven-day-old baby's bottle after a conference with three other members of her family. She took the tranquillizer drug thalidomide during pregnancy.

The family conference was held after two doctors and a Roman Catholic nun refused her request to kill the child, she said.

The young mother broke down several times during questioning. Sobbing, she said: "I thought of all possible solutions after I had been shown the baby but could find nothing else to do."

She said her family doctor, Jacques Casters, told her: "I myself can do nothing. Do it yourself."

Dr. Casters gave her a prescription for the poison and the baby's grandmother bought the barbiturate, according to the charges.

The baby's mother, told the court: "If only my baby had been mentally abnormal, it would have been different. She would not have realized what her fate was. But she had a normal brain. She would have realized. She would have known. I would have had remorse all my life. There was nothing else I could have done."

"Yes, I tried to think of other solutions. Day and night I was thinking about it. But what other solution?"

Fernande Yerna, the baby's grandmother, said that soon after the birth and when Suzanne did not yet know about the baby's malformation, her daughter asked her to make sure the clinic had not forgotten to put an identity bracelet on the baby's arm. She quoted her daughter as saying: "I do not want my baby to be exchanged for another."

A handkerchief to her face, Mrs. Yerna said: "It was unbearable. Mr. President, it was terrible."

The accused are Suzanne, her mother; 50, her husband, Jean, 35, her sister, Monique, 35, her brother, 35, and Dr. Casters, 33. The court is sitting with a jury of 12—all men.

Crowds of people, many of them women, gathered outside the court room entrance long before the trial opened.

Inside the court room, especially enlarged for the occasion by the removal of partitions, more than 100 reporters and several hundred members of the public—most of them standing—watched the accused walk into the prisoner's box under the glare of floodlights.

For the first time in Belgian history television and film cameras were in the courtroom.

Mrs. Vandepuit risks the death sentence—symbolic in Belgium, since it is always commuted to life imprisonment except for treason—if she is found guilty. Extenuating circumstances can reduce the sentence to a minimum three years imprisonment.

Mrs. Yerna is charged with approaching Casters to obtain the means of killing Carinne, the doctor with providing the drug which killed the baby and the two others with condoning the killing of the child.
